JURY STANDS 11 TO 1 FOR ROOSEVELT

The Twelfth Juror is Also for Roosevelt on Condition that the Costs of the Action are Equally Divided.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, May 21.—When the Barnes-Roosevelt $50,000 jury filed into the court room at 11 o'clock today Foreman Zuill announced the 12 men had found for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and asked the court to divide the costs between the belligerents.

The jury was polled. It was found that 11 were for the colonel, the 12th juror, Edward Barnes, a Syracuse motorman, rose in his seat and said he favored the plaintiff.

Justice Andrews instructed the 12 men to retire again and agree if possible upon a flat verdict for Roosevelt or for Barnes without qualification.

Justice Andrews was informed after Burns's speech by Foreman Zuill that the jury was unanimous in finding for Colonel Roosevelt if the court costs could be equally divided. Andrews sent the jury back to their room without delivering any fresh instructions on that phase of the case.

The celebrated libel suit therefore hangs merely on a question of court costs.

The jury evidently believes that the colonel was justified on July 22, 1914, in declaring that William Barnes was in accord with Charles F. Murphy and Tammany Hall in dictating the political fate of the Empire State. The only question still in the minds of "The twelve good men and true" is:

Why pays for the political show that has been put on in Onondaga county supreme court for five consecutive weeks?

At noon the jury still was out. Justice Andrews sat on his bench. A few straggling spectators lounged in their seats while the colonel walked restlessly up and down the enclosure within the rail.

Roosevelt's entire legal battery were on watch. Barnes was being looked after only by the occasional counsel, with L. Barnum. Mr. Ivins and the rest of the Barnes lawyers with the exception of Oliver Wolff, left today for New York.

The Barnes-Roosevelt jury, if they fail to agree, will not be discharged before 10 a. m. Saturday.

At 2:20 this afternoon the 12 men were still out. Justice Andrews instructed the clerk of the court that he would be in recess in chambers until 5 p. m. If, before that hour, the jury agreed, the court was to be notified by telephone.

If there were no agreement by 5 p. m. the jury was to be locked up until 10 a. m. tomorrow morning.

This morning the $50,000 jury stood unanimous that Theodore Roosevelt was justified when he said that William Barnes was in corrupt alliance with Charles F. Murphy. But the 12 men were divided 11 to one on who should foot the bill.

QUESTIONS RAISED IN SMITH ESTATE

Important Points Arise in the Intermediate Accounting of the Executors of the Will of the Hon. George J. Smith.

A number of important questions are involved in the intermediate accounting of M. Linn Bruce, John T. Harwood and Laura N. Smith, as executors under the will of the Hon. George J. Smith of this city, which was taken up for hearing before Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court Thursday afternoon and was continued today.

Mrs. Smith asks that the $200,000 legacy made to her by her husband be declared to have preference over other legacies after the payment of debts, and that under the residuary clause of the will the court shall determine in effect that Mrs. Smith becomes entitled to the residuary estate absolutely and may dispose of it as she may choose.

The clause of the will which it is asked that Surrogate Gill shall construe is the twelfth clause, which reads as follows:

"Twelfth: I give, devise and bequeath all the rest, residue and remander of my estate of every name and nature and wheresoever situate to my said wife, Laura N. Smith, to have and to hold the same, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, for and during the term of her natural life; it being my will that she shall have the full and unrestricted use and enjoyment thereof without accounting therefor, and the right to use and expend said interest and income, and so much of the principal thereof as she may deem best, and upon her death, if she survive me, and upon my death, in case she does not survive me, I hereby give, devise and bequeath said rest, residue and remainder of my estate, or such part or portion thereof as may then remain at the time of the death of my said wife, as follows:—"

Under the remainder of the twelfth clause, one-fifth of the remainder is given to Edna Griffiths and Charles E. Dunwoodie; one-tenth to Edgar Scott McKnight; one-tenth to the Fish Industrial School for Crippled Children, New York city; one-fifth as an endowment fund for a Home for Aged and Indigent Women in Kingston; one-fifth to Mrs. Dora Hardenburgh and to her daughter, Elizabeth Hardenburgh Deyo; one-tenth to Frederick W. Smith; out of the remaining one-tenth, $10,000 to the Industrial Home and $5,000 to the Y. M. C. A., and the balance to be expended toward the establishment of a home in Kingston for Aged and Indigent Men.

Mrs. Smith was represented in the proceedings by Mark M. Solomon of New York city; her co-executors, the Hon. M. Linn Bruce and John T. Harwood of New York city, were represented by the Hon. Charles H. Beckett; the three executors being represented also by Frederick E. W. Darrow of this city, of counsel; Charles F. Cossum of Poughkeepsie appeared for Charles E. Dunwoodie and Elizabeth Hardenburgh Deyo; Kellogg & Rose of New York city appeared for Katherine Booth, a legatee; Gregg & McGovern of New York city appeared for Edna Griffiths, and Philip Elting of this city as special guardian for infants who may share in the estate in the event of their parents' death.

The account of the executors shows that they have turned over to Mrs. Smith, as directed by the will, personal property of the value of $6,130.28, and that they have paid to legatees under the will the sum of $4,030.50. To creditors of the estate they have made payments of $30,902.81; they have made payments on account of secured loans amounting to $52,163.32, and payments on account of interest on loans amounting to $4,976.67. The expenses of administration incurred by the executors amount to $46,796.50, and they have made payments of expenses of administration amounting to $8,838.44.

Receipts by the executors from rents and the proceeds of the sale of real estate amounted to $18,745.66. During the time of their administration it has been necessary for them to advance moneys out of the estate funds for the preservation of the assets of the estate from loss and destruction, and such advances amounted to $7,257.60. They have also borrowed from The George J. Smith Company, all of whose stock is owned by the estate, the sum of $100,000 to meet pressing demands, and notes have been given by the executors to the George J. Smith Company for that amount.

Two hundred and ninety bonds of the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company, of the par value of $1,000 each, were found by the executors to have been deposited by Mr. Smith during his lifetime as collateral for loans. Mr. Smith was largely interested in that company, both as a holder of its bonds and as a stockholder, and while the stock pays no dividends the bonds held by the estate bring in an income of about $12,000 a year. The executors say they have been trying to dispose of the bonds at 70, but have been unable to do so. Mr. Dunwoodie stated in court that he had a Brooklyn trust company which was willing to loan the executors money with the bonds as collateral, and would accept such collateral at 75. It was admitted by everyone that the market for these bonds is not active and there have been no recent sales.

Claims presented against the estate which have not been paid are those of Judge M. Linn Bruce for services as counsel to Mr. Smith during his lifetime, amounting to $5,510.67; Cullman Brothers, a copartnership, whose claim arose through business dealings carried on by Mr. Smith sometime before his death, which amounts to $57,556.03; the Bensonhurst Company, whose claim is $12,000, and small claims aggregating $109.98.

Thursday afternoon's session was devoted to taking testimony of the claim of Judge Bruce, who is one of the executors. The services covered by the bill extended from December 9, 1912, to the time of his death on December 24, 1913.

James H. Stuart, who was Mr. Smith's bookkeeper and general man of affairs from January 4, 1913, was the only witness examined. He became acquainted with Mr. Smith in 1903 and for a time acted as broker and agent for him in his real estate transations. After Mr. Smith's death the executors continued to employ him to look after the books because of his familiarity with them.

A few days after his employment, said Mr. Stuart, Mr. Smith told him that Judge Bruce was his counsel, and a few days later they went together to Judge Bruce's office, where Mr. Stuart was introduced as the man who was to be associated with Mr. Smith in the real estate business. Mr. Smith had a number of papers regarding some litigation which Judge Bruce was looking after for him, and they discussed that matter. The litigation arose over two bills presented by Rollins & Rollins, a firm of New York lawyers. One bill was against the George J. Smith Company, for services from March 26, 1909, to July 11, 1912, for $6,000 and disbursements; the other bill was against Mr. Smith personally from January 7, 1909, to November 17, 1910, and was for $12,000. The bills were itemized and the latter bill covered 28 pages. Judge Bruce succeeded in compromising these bills. The amount finally paid was not stated in court.

Other litigation was with the Crescent Brick & Supply Company, and in addition to these matters Mr. Smith, according to Mr. Stuart, telephoned to Judge Bruce almost every day, whether he was in New York or Kingston, and frequently sent Mr. Stuart with letters to Judge Bruce in regard to papers. After Mr. Smith went to Atlantic City, N. J., where he died, Judge Bruce frequently visited Mr. Smith's office at 266 Fifth avenue, and signed the checks prepared by Mr. Stuart, which he was authorized to do under a power of attorney given to him by Mr. Smith. While at Atlantic City, Mr. Smith also had Judge Bruce remove his will from his office to his, the judge's, safe deposit box.

Shortly before his death, Mr. Smith had Judge Bruce prepare a deed of trust under which all his property and business was to be taken over by one of the New York trust companies, but he died before the deed was executed.

The hearing in the George J. Smith estate was continued before Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court this morning and this afternoon. In addition to the counsel who appeared on Thursday, John T. Smith of New York city appeared as counsel with Mr. Solomon, attorney for Mrs. Smith, and Corporation Counsel Brinnier appeared for Mayor Canfield, the mayor of the city of Kingston, under the terms of the will, being one of the trustees of the Home for Aged and Indigent Women which may be established under the residuary clause.

Preference for Mrs. Smith's legacy of $200,000 is claimed for her by her attorneys on the ground that Mr. Smith was aware during his lifetime that it would be impossible for her to maintain the properties he had devised to her without a stated income such as she could receive from that sum, and they argued that under a long line of New York decisions the court must construe such a legacy as having preference over other legacies. All the other legacies are payable in installments, part payment to be made at the end of three years after Mr. Smith's death, and the remainder at the end of five years after his death, and with one exception to be payable only in the event that the legatees are living at the end of such three-years and five-year periods.

Mr. Smith's equity in his Seventy-second street home in New York city, it was developed during the argument, was small. On Thursday the Equitable Mortgage Company filed a claim with the executors for $65,000. Various mortgages on that property amounted to $65,000. When Mr. Smith died the mortgages were due, the interest was in arrears and taxes had not been paid. The mortgages and other liens amounted to $69,000. Mrs. Smith was willing to sell the property to a solvent purchaser and after long negotiations the property was sold to Mr. Browning for $69,000, the sale obligating him to pay the Equitable mortgage of $15,000 and to assume the other mortgage. Because the taxable transfer appraisal proceedings had not yet been had, title to the property was rejected, but the matter was finally determined on Wednesday.

The Albany avenue property in this city, it was urged, was uncompleted at the time Mr. Smith died, and the fixed charges and the expenditure of amounts necessary to maintain the property was a burden which Mr. Smith never intended his wife to assume except through the income provided for her by the legacy of $200,000, which undoubtedly he intended should have preference over all other legacies. As indicating his intention to give her preference over all other legatees, it argued also that he had so drawn the twelfth clause of his will, by which she was not compelled to account for her expenditures and was given the right to use "so much of the principal thereof as she may deem best," that she should practically have the use of the entire residuary estate and in effect should become the residuary legatee.

Counsel for the legatees claimed that Mr. Smith had amply provided for Mrs. Smith's immediate needs and her needs for sometime to come after his death, in event of the estate being unable to raise sufficient income to pay the other legacies immediately, by providing her with a large life insurance which became payable to her immediately on his death. It was admitted that Mr. Smith left a life insurance of $20,000 which was payable to Mrs. Smith, but her counsel argued that this was no great provision and not intended to support her for a long time, as evidence of which was the fact that before his death he provided her with $1,500 monthly for her personal use and household expenses, which sum was exclusive of fixed charges which he paid himself. She had no personal estate of her own during his lifetime, but at his death received the $20,000 life insurance. Counsel stated also that since his death, when the estate had been in need of funds, Mrs. Smith had gone into her own private funds to supply the money needed by the estate for taxes and other immediate expenses and charges.

Counsel for the legatees asked that the executors be directed to pay the legatees interest on the amount of their legacies, to which it was claimed they were entitled, and stated that there was no objection to Mrs. Smith also being paid interest on her legacy of $200,000 provided the other legatees also received interest on their legacies. A suggestion that a partial payment of perhaps $50,000 be made to Mrs. Smith on account of her $200,000 legacy was not favorably received by most of the counsel.

Mr. Cossum, counsel for Charles E. Dunwoodie and Elizabeth Hardenburgh Deyo, stated that of the 297 $1,000 bonds of the Acker, Marrall & Condit Company, 100 bonds had been deposited as collateral for a loan of $57,000 and 190 bonds as collateral for a loan of $32,000, leaving 7 bonds free to be disposed of by the executors and the proceeds thereof applied to the payment of interest on the legacies to his clients. The executors, he said, had used moneys of the estate to pay assessments on properties of companies in which Mr. Smith had held the stock, and while he did not criticise such payments, he wished to call attention to the fact.

In regard to the loan made by the executors from the George J. Smith Company, said Mr. Cossum, since the George J. Smith estate owned all the stock in the George J. Smith Company, the estate was virtually borrowing money of itself.

Details of some of the real estate transactions were given by Judge Beckett, counsel for the executors, who said that the property at Hoyt and Fulton streets, Brooklyn, had been sold for $285,000, but this sale has been subject to mortgages of $170,000, leaving $115,000 to be turned over to the George J. Smith Company. Of this amount, $85,000 had been in cash and $30,000 had been a third mortgage. The commissions on the sale amounted to $2,850; one-half the taxes had amounted to $2,200, and an extra payment had been necessary to the Title Guaranty & Trust Company of $450, leaving $80,500 net cash in the hands of the executors. The third mortgage of $30,000 had later been disposed of for $23,000, part of which had been used in paying off a loan, and leaving $19,000 to be turned over to the executors.

At the present time, said Judge Beckett, secured debts of the estate, such debts being secured by bonds of the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company, are: The George J. Smith Company, $20,000, secured by 80 bonds; the Empire Trust Company, $10,000, secured by 40 bonds; Lincoln National Bank, $12,500, secured by 50 bonds; Commercial Trust Company, $6,666.67, secured by 20 bonds, and $2,670, secured by 210 shares of the Basi-Flushing Company; Cullman Brothers, $57,556.03, secured by 100 bonds. The total amount of the outstanding debts secured by bonds is $109,392.70, and they are secured by 290 bonds. In addition, there is other indebtedness which is not secured. Judge Beckett said he also wished it to appear on the record that the executors have made earnest and continuous efforts to dispose of the assets of the estate but have been unable to do so except as shown in the account.

The hearing was continued this afternoon.

MABEL SCOFIELD AND FLORENCE HARMON

WILSON LAUGHS AT SUFFRAGISTS WHO INVADE BILTMORE LUNCHEON.

New York, May 21.—Two suffragists invaded the Hotel Biltmore for the purpose of presenting a vote for women petition to President Wilson during his recent visit here to review the Atlantic fleet. Evading the army of secret service men and detectives appointed to guard the president from all intruders, the women reached Secretary Tumulty.

"We must have an answer. Don't let him evade us again," they said.

"Ladies, you are impolite," said the president's secretary. "I refuse to deliver your letter."

"Very well," they said, "we will wait and give it to him ourselves."

The indignant guard edged further and further back, crowding the suffragists into a corner of the corridor. When the president appeared, however, they jumped on a divan, waving their letters over the heads of the police crying, "Votes for Women!"

President Wilson laughed. His good nature cleared the air, and turned what might have been an unpleasant disturbance into a trifling incident, so far as he was concerned.

Suffragists of New York were indignant last night, however, fearing that the militant methods of the president's visitors might be attributed to other workers for the cause. The two were Misses Florence Harmon and Mabel Scofield, members of the Congressional Union, the most militant of all American suffrage organizations.

RED MONOGRAMS TO PLAY ROBIN HOODS

At 3 p. m. Sunday, if the man who spies through a telescope on stars and planets and other celestial tourists can come to terms with fair weather, the Red Monograms of this city and the Robin Hoods of Hyde Park will meet in a Tri-County League battle on McVey's field. The Monograms have "taken up slack" in their efficiency belts and promise to win the contest. The Hyde Park contingent is an unusually strong team which has not lost a game so far this season.

Heavy Tows on the River.

The tug Baker went down the river this morning with a tow of the Cornell line from Albany. The Pocahontas also had a down tow. On the way up there are two tows, the John H. Cordts having one and the Knickerbocker the other.

The tug James H. Scott was put into commission by the Cornell line this morning and started for Albany to do towing about that harbor.

United States Inspectors Keller and Gaul were in Kingston this morning and inspected the Cornell tugs Rob and J. Arnold.

I. Y. M. S. Banquet.

The I. Y. M. S. of the Livingston Street Lutheran Church will hold a banquet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the church basement, to which all members and their wives or lady friends are invited.

Musical Recital.

A musical recital will be given this evening at Holy Cross Church at 8 o'clock. A very interesting program of organ, vocal and instrumental music will be rendered.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

Rome—War regarded as inevitable. Senate ratified act of deputies conferring full war powers upon cabinet. Persistent rumors war council been called. City generally calm. King signed decree suspending diplomatic immunity for Austria-German ambassadors to Vatican.

Venice—Dispatches from frontier states Austrian authorities have already interned 50,000 Italians.

Paris—Reported Italian warships have entered Austrian port of Cattaro. Allies resumed offensive in West Flanders and Northern France. French gained further ground north of Ypres. British making progress north of La Bassee.

Berlin—Russians defeated in Niemen river districts of North Poland and fleeing to Kovno. Russians lost 104,000 prisoners in three weeks' fighting in Galicia. English and French attacks in western theater repulsed.

Petrograd—Austro-Germans maintaining offensive on San river around Pzemysl and north of Jaroslaw but at other points strength of their attacks diminished. Heavy losses inflicted on Teutonic forces.

Athens—All Turkish forts on Asiatic side of Dardanelles been destroyed.

MAMMOTH CARNIVAL VISITS KINGSTON

The Metropolitan Shows, which have been booked by the Odd Fellows' Association, are arriving in this city on every train. Their caravans and paraphernalia can be seen passing through the streets at any time of the day. The Kingston Gas and Electric Company is busy with the construction of the lights which includes installing lights from Broadway to the Athletic Field. This will give Kingston a "White Way" and an illumination which throws its rays to the sky.

This aggregation carries riding devices such as the "Ferris Wheel," "Merry-go-round" and "Old Mill." The concessions are surrounded by a scenic construction known as the "Swiss Village." Therein you may visit the various departments, including "Cook House," "Electric Fish Pond," "Tivoli African Jungle" and many others.

The shows, of which there are ten, consist of a Water Circus, at which Madame Ella Voigt, our local talented lady diver, may be seen, giving exhibitions of American and English swimming strokes, also imitating Annetta Kellerman in fancy diving. We have heard excellent reports of her work. She will be assisted by five girl companions, who are also water artists. The "Ten-in-One" derives its name from the fact that there are ten exhibitions under one tent for one price.

The "Athletic Show" gives you the knowledge of how strength is developed in the human body. The main feature of this show is a female wrestler, who challenges any of her male onlookers to a match for a consideration worth while.

The "Posing Show" is similar to that of the Paris Models that scored such a phenomenal success at the Kingston Opera House during the early spring.

The vaudeville and plantation show consists of a variety of colored comedians who give you the real life of the southern colored population of the Mississippi levees.

There are other shows as interesting as the foregoing. Two brass bands are carried with the aggregation; one pickaninny band and one solo band, which will give daily concerts, afternoon and evening.

The free act, known as the "Dip of Death," is performed from a height of about one hundred feet in mid-air from an angle declining to the ground. On this space is mounted a tight wire on which a man with one leg only attaches a roller skate and glides for the goal. When he covers about half the distance he decides to invert himself and finishes the balance of the journey head down on one wheel of the skate.

In the center of the grounds will be located what is known as the "Industrial Exhibition," including such corporations as the Marvel Flour Company, who will bake with their product for your palate to sample. Armour & Company will demonstrate their line. Slade Spice Company will have something spicy to show. Kingston Gas and Electric Company will show the crowds what can be done these days with gas and electricity. Automobile agents have space to demonstrate their mechanical wonders. There are other spaces devoted to demonstration and sample giving concerns.

The Odd Fellows heretofore have given the public a clean cut aggregation. It is their policy not to have anything out of the way, and no gambling will be tolerated with at any cost.

Join the crowds and amble to the carnival, beginning Saturday, and see something to make you talk about for some time to come. Everybody will be there.

"The Ham Tree."

Reports from all over the state where this great organization has played are very high in their praise of McIntyre and Heath in the revival of the success, "The Ham Tree," which will be presented at the opera house tonight. The company numbers over sixty people and carries two cars of scenery which is without a doubt one of the most gigantic productions ever attempted at the opera house.

Wise Kid.

A confirmed tippler remarked in the presence of his little son that at one period he didn't touch a drop for two years. "Pa," said the little fellow, "was that your first two years?"

MARVIN E. PARROTT GETS THREE YEARS

The New York World says: Marvin E. Parrott, an ex-convict and disbarred lawyer, was sentenced Thursday by Judge Wadhams in the court of general sessions to three years in state prison for swindling Charles Wetterau, an elevator conductor, out of $75. Parrott was indicted as a second offender, but the district attorney accepted his plea of guilty as a first offender.

In sentencing him Judge Wadhams took into consideration the fact that Parrott had paid back the $75. There were several other persons in court, however, who had been swindled by him, and Assistant District Attorney Delehanty told the court that Parrott had been associated with Thomas F. Carberry, who was sent to Sing Sing prison a few weeks ago.

The evidence against Parrott and Carberry was supplied to the district attorney by The World after various persons had complained that they were using its advertising columns to secure their victims.

Parrott advertised for a collector who could furnish $75 cash security, and Wetterau answered the advertisement. Parrott represented to him that he was going to publish a magazine and wanted a man to collect advertising bills. After getting $75 as security, Parrott disappeared. He was finally located in a fashionable upper west side apartment house, where he had been living under an assumed name.

ULSTER BENGALS TO PLAY NEWBURGH

The Ulster Bengals will play another home gave Saturday at McVey's field, the team from Newburgh Academy furnishing material for the fray. Ulster is credited with four victories and three losses up to date.

Last season Newburgh made Ulster hustle to beat them two games, their star twirler awing the U. A. batters. They are said to have a fast team this year also. Fans desiring an interesting sight should turn out.

In the last two games the team's batting average has remained unchanged, .184 still being the mark. Seventeen more stolen bases have been annexed, however, making a total of 51 in the seven games. Terwilliger has sped past twelve in this way. Downer still heads the batters but is scarcely over .300. Pehleman and Culloton are second. Hallinan jumped past Terwilliger and Kiernan shifted from eighth position to fourth.

The team's fielding average moved up to .927.

The averages follow:

Kuepferle an American.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 21.—The claim of Anton Kuepferle, the alleged German spy, who committed suicide in London yesterday, that he was an American citizen, was authenticated here today. County Clerk Devoy in Brooklyn, in searching through the records, found that Kuepferle had sworn allegiance to this country on May 13, 1912.

The Highland Epworth League Union will hold its meeting at Highland this Friday evening.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1238—A Practical Serviceable Combination—Ladies' Apron, With Sleeve Protector and Cap.

As here shown white drill was used for this set of serviceable garments. The models are also suitable for gingham, chambray, sateen, percale, lawn or seersucker. The apron is good on good comfortable lines and affords ample protection for the dress beneath. The sleeve protectors are a popular accessory, and the cap is good to hold off the dust at the same time it imparts a neat trim appearance. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, medium and large. It embraces all styles illustrated, and requires 5 1/8 yards of 36 inch material for the apron, 3/4 yard for the cap and 7/8 yard for one pair of sleeve protectors.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1915 large Spring and Summer Catalogue, containing over 400 designs in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, as well as the latest Embroidery Designs, also a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

WEDDING WARE FOR THE JUNE BRIDE

Silverware, which is becoming more and more the most popular wedding gift, must have a standard of merit to be appreciated by the bride. If it is Gorham's you know and she knows that it is genuine. Gifts of silver and gold have the intrinsic value and permanence of a precious stone and should not be nondescript in origin.

Our stock is large and varied, and our prices are as low as those of the Gorham Co.

PREPAREDNESS TO AVERT WAR.

War waves sweep over the world periodically, just the same as crime waves or waves of other sorts. Periodically in small communities everyone becomes ambitious to work, gossip, dance, debate, embrace religion or do any of the other things which go to make up the routine of life. War affects larger sections and impresses more people with one idea, and after war anywhere has been in progress for a certain length of time, countries adopt the chip-carrying habit, which continues until something happens which causes the tide to change and results in a revulsion of feeling which manifests itself in equal enthusiasm for peace.

In the United States there is neither any great desire to enter a world war nor is there any great prejudice against it. There is a marked difference in the public's attitude since last August when hell broke loose in Europe. With the exception of hyphenated Americans whose propaganda of having the United States help the fatherland or the mother country was begun, there was a feeling that Europe's slaughter and destruction would, of necessity, result in advantage to America. To this feeling succeeded a definite hope that the United States would keep out of any entanglements which would lead to our participation in the fight. A revulsion against foreign-made and conducted propagandas strengthened this hope until the Lusitania incident, since when there has been a demand practically unanimous that no deliberate action by any foreign government through which American lives and American shipping are sacrificed to the madness of war commanders shall be suffered to go unheeded and unrebuked. The United States is too great a nation to allow such practices to continue, no matter what country attempts them.

Should the United States be forced into the conflict, it could not enter with the same state of preparedness as the countries now fighting or getting ready to fight. The American people follow peaceful pursuits, and militarism is a stranger to our institutions and our national life. Nevertheless, we should be prepared. When nine out of ten men in a crowd begin to seize brickbats, it behooves the tenth man either to run or to select a bat for his own use and protection, for he cannot tell what will happen. The United States cannot shirk its duty to its citizens or to humanity. We do not like to fight but we cannot back down or run away. But are we prepared?

In opening the twenty-first annual Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration this week, Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University, expressed concisely the thought of thousands of peace-loving but patriotic Americans when he said: "I do not advocate preparedness for war but a preparedness against war—a preparedness which in the event of the catastrophe of war itself will prevent the enormous initial sacrifice of human lives which has characterized every war in which the United States has been engaged throughout our past history."

Germany was prepared and did not suffer the sacrifice spoken of by Dr. Hibben. The trouble with Germany was she had collected so many brickbats that other nations deemed it necessary to disarm her; with fewer brickbats concealed about her person she would have had fewer world-enemies when the fight finally started. What the United States needs most now is to be prepared against trouble. It would be unfortunate should we attempt to monopolize the brickbat business but at least we should keep a few brickbat plants in operation.

The Common Council could do no wiser thing than to make the dog tax about three times what it is now. The money goes into the police pension fund, which is not nearly as large as it should be. In fact, it is not difficult to imagine events which would reduce it to nothing and compel the city to discontinue the pensions it is now paying or raise the money by increasing the annual budget, which is already about as high as we can stand. A city is no place for a dog anyway. These animals are an unmitigated nuisance, defiling the streets, biting children and even grown persons and disturbing traffic. Individuals who are selfish enough to maintain them ought to pay well for the privilege. It is so seldom that an opportunity arises to benefit a good cause and diminish a public annoyance, both at one whack, that it should be taken advantage of every time.

NARROW-MINDEDNESS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

We, some of us, think we are very broad in matters of religion; and if we really are, we deserve to be congratulated, for it is not a virtue conspicuously in evidence. Yet it ought not to be a difficult thing to view another faith from an angle of observation not our own and to be tolerant of its tenets, though they chance to run counter to those of our choice.

About as strong a sidelight as need be thrown upon the bigotry and narrowness of an individual is the expressive, "Oh, he's a Protestant, you know!" or, "Well, he's a Jew!" or, "But he's a Catholic!" and "Would you believe it, she's a Christian Scientist?" The finality of such remarks is ridiculous, yet their meaning is perfectly obvious—"What could you expect when one has such a belief?"

It is well to be strongly entrenched in religious belief, but when we pass the bonds of tolerance and cannot see any good in a faith not of our acceptance, something must be wrong with teaching or practice, and it is generally the latter. We may consider our faith and that of our fathers right, but don't let us shut our eyes to the good that may inhere in others; and, equally, let us drop those expressive, but offensive references.

For they all savor of narrow-mindedness, which we vigorously disclaim and denounce—but are we quite sure that we do not exhibit it?

Perhaps it is more of a habit than anything else that leads to the same offensive reference to nationalities, always with a slighting sting that covers the insidious inference that somehow the particular nation is at fault for possessing and encouraging characteristic badness. "That's the German of it!" or the Irish, or the Scotch, or the Dutch, anything, everything, but the American. In our amazing self-complacency we never look within, always without, and it is narrow and unfitting our notions of bigness.

As a nation we are so self-satisfied and pleased with all that is American that we do not bother even to shrug our shoulders or smile in the face of an attempt to put a passing stigma upon the word "American;" but we stand nearly alone in that dignity. Have you ever in a moment of forgetfulness been betrayed into a sort of half-contemptuous designation of something as characteristic of a particular nation, to the very person to whom that nationality was the dearest? One such lesson is quite sufficient.

A few years ago the leading Jewish organization of the south passed a strongly worded resolution in condemnation of the caricaturing of their race on the stage and in magazines and newspapers, and they were quite right in their protest, for when caricature passes the limit of reason and descends to the grossly offensive, dignity and self-respect demand public resentment.

Dignity forced an earnest and effective protest against the absurd caricature on the stage of a type of Irishman no longer seen and intolerable as an exaggeration if the type was still rampant.

It may be an indication of greatness to consent to the parading of weaknesses, personal, racial or national, imagined or real, but not many have achieved that high estate; and some of us fail to recognize any special virtue in continually ignoring an offense. Nobody wants to go about the world with a chip on his shoulder looking for trouble for himself, his creed or his nation, but nobody likes continued words of derision hurled at the things he prizes the most. And big-minded folk try to remember that very plain truth.

But perhaps the narrowness that comes from self-righteousness, the refusal just for a moment to put oneself in the place of another is the most harmful of all.

The harsh judgments passed from comfortable, sheltered seats by the fireside upon the hapless victims of environment, heredity, inborn evil, leave a mark of narrowness rather darker than all others. It is unjust, cruel, to measure all by one standard. There is a type of humanity, possibly best represented by a woman, who never has seen or known anything but the beautiful, always helped and never hindered; yet from her serene height she takes no reckoning of the troubles below and condemns those who fail to follow her lead.

With all her advantages, it seems not to occur to her that there is more than one kind of weakness and that one may be woefully narrow all the while one is living a seemingly exemplary life. For there are many strange human currents ebbing and flowing, and broad-minded folk must reckon with all.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"How does Jones know so much about automobiles?" "Just by listening; he was a bartender for years."—Puck.

"I suppose when the auto turned turtle, your party was considerably perturbed." "Well, I must acknowledge we were greatly upset."—Baltimore American.

Mrs. Rosenbaum—"Oh, Jacob, little Ikey has swallowed a dime." Rosenbaum—"Send him to bed midout his supper. Dot vill make it about efen."—Boston Transcript.

Stranger—"Are you sure it was a marriage license you gave me last month?" Clerk—"Certainly, sir. Why?" Stranger—"Well, I've led a dog's life ever since."—Boston Transcript.

British Officer—"Well, Paddy, how do you like soldiering?" Irish Recruit—"Rightly, sorr. All me life I worked for a farmer, an' he niver wanst tould me to shtand at aise."—Punch.

"How many head o' live stock you got on the place?" "Live stock?" echoed the somewhat puzzled farmer. "What d' ye mean by live stock? I got four steam tractors and seven automobiles."—Judge.

"What is the hardest part of your work as a lecturer?" asked the man designated as toastmaster. "As a rule," replied Mr. Speekins, "the hardest part of my work is waking the audience up after the man who introduces me has concluded his remark."—Washington Star.

Cause for Friction.

Young Demmons, an adjuster for a big insurance company, was just returning home from a near-by city, where he had been adjust a loss on a building that had burned, when he met an old friend.

"How did the fire start?" inquired the friend.

"I can't say with certainty," replied the adjuster, "and nobody seemed able to tell. But it struck me it might have been the result of friction."

"Why," asked the friend, "what do you mean by that?"

"Well," said Demmons gravely, "friction sometimes comes from rubbing a $15,000 policy on a $10,000 building."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

War News.

In a hospital at Cape Town during the South African War, the keenness of certain amateur members of the nursing staff tended to aggravate, rather than alleviate, the sufferings of some of the wounded.

At last the British soldier's native wit came to the rescue. One morning a sick soldier's bed clothes displayed a slip of paper inscribed:

"Too ill to be nursed today!"—Tit-Bits.

A Sure Thing About Wives.

C. N. Niles, the Rochester aviator, who captained Carranza's flying staff in Mexico, said in a New York interview:

"Successful? I should say we were successful. Aeroplanes are just as sure to be successful in warfare as wives are sure to be jealous.

"I know a Rochester man who said warmly to his wife one evening:

"'I saw Mrs. Brown today. By jingo what a beauty! She doesn't look 35, does she?'

"'No, not now,' his wife answered, coldly, 'though I guess she did once—back in the '90s, say.'"—Rochester Herald.

Perhaps?

Joseph A. Conry, Russian consul to Boston, said at a luncheon, apropos of a Russian victory:

"The Germans are still singing 'Deutschland Over All.' But let them look out. It won't be long, perhaps, before the time will be changed to 'Deutschland All Over.'"—Boston Post.

The Kicker.

A leading western wheat grower said to a reporter in New York:

"Wheat must of course, be higher. If they'll give more for our wheat abroad, we must give more for it here. That's logic. As to the man, anyhow, who can't stand an extra cent on a loaf of bread—well a man as poor as that, I can't count him in—I can't count him in at all.

"Some of these kickers against our unavoidable war prices remind me of the farmer who visited the Broadway cafe. They charged him there 25 cents for a whiskey, and, when he complained that he could get a whiskey up at his home saloon for 15 cents, the manager replied:

"'But, sir, look at your surroundings. Look at the marble columns and mahogany and oil paintings. We have to charge you for these beautiful surroundings, you bet.'

"'Oh,' said the farmer, dryly.

"The next morning he came back and ordered another whiskey, and planked down a dime.

"'But,' said the bartender—'but—'

"'No you don't,' said the farmer. 'No, you don't. I saw your pictures yesterday.'"—New York Wold.

The Amputation.

Representative Anthony, advocating increased armaments at a luncheon in Washington, said:

"I firmly believe that the opponents of armaments understand present-day conditions as little as the Hackney lad understood war.

"In Mare street, Hackney, a lad said;

"'Have you heard about Jim? He's been wounded by the Germans. Ain't it terrible?'

"'How'a he been wounded?' asked a girl.

"'It seems,' said the Hackney lad, sadly, 'that the Germans have cut off his retreat.'"—Washington Post.

SPANISH WAR VETS ON MEMORIAL DAY

Thursday evening the members of Colonial Camp, No. 75, U. S. W. V. met at the armory and completed arrangements for Memorial Day when the Spanish war veterans will act in conjunction with the G. A. R. An escort from the camp will report at each school on Monday morning, May 31, at 8 o'clock and escort the school children to the cemeteries where the graves of the old soldiers will be decorated. That evening the members of the camp will attend in a body the exercises to be held in the new high school auditorium.

The camp on Saturday afternoon, May 29, will decorate the graves of their comrades who have died since the war. There are twenty-four graves to be decorated in this city of the boys who left Kingston for the front in 1898. Since that time forty-eight of the members have answered the last roll call.

On Sunday, May 23, the annual inspection of the camp will be held by the district inspector, A. V. Burton, of Newburgh and it is expected that every member will be present at that time as delegates will be elected to attend the annual convention.

WHIST PLAYERS' BANQUET.

Losers Entertain Winners at Van Cockburn's Summer Hotel.

Thursday the losers of the annual bridge whist tournament of the Kingston Club entertained the winners at a banquet at the Cockburn House at Mt. Pleasant. The trip was made in autombiles leaving Kingston about three o'clock that afternoon. Van Cockburn, the genial proprietor of the hotel, had made elaborate preparations for the event and in the large dining room the tables were arranged in the form of a Maltese cross and were handsomely decorated with flowers. Plates were laid for thirty. The arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Sam Bernstein, the chairman of the losers, and nothing had been left undone to make it a success.

Mine Host Cockburn served the following fine menu:

Grape Fruit.
Olives Celery Radishes
Noodle Soup
Blue Fish
Turkey Roast Beef
Sherbet
Boiled Ham Filet of Veal
Mashed Potatoes
Asparagus String Beans
Salad
Lemon Pie
Cherry Pie
Fruit Pudding
Ice Cream
Coffee
Thuringer Hofbrau
Cigars

The winners were Dr. Harold Rockefeller, J. D. Rodie, E. E. Eastmead, C. A. Hungerford, Ray Hillebrant, Ward B. Everett, David Burgevin, Dr. E. E. Henry, Dr. H. F. Meinhardt, and C. A. Warren. The losers were Sam Bernstein, Elva H. Bogart, T. D. Abrams, Charles Finch, Frederick H. Sanford, Jay E. Klock, Christopher K. Loughran, George Whittaker and G. A. Hart. The guests were Cornelius Hume, Charles A. Schermerhorn, Gerard W. Betz, G. Wallace Codwise, W. Scott Gillespie, Howard Stephens, William R. Bennett, F. C. Slawson, C. E. Everett, S. L. Drake and J. Hardenburgh Roosa.

Five More For Sulzer.

Sulzer's army in Ulster county is not gaining recruits very rapidly and of the 8,000 special enrollment ballots sent out by the local boards of election commisioners to voters not enrolled in any party giving them the opportunity of enrolling in Sulzer's American party if desired just seventy-seven have done so. From time to time The Freeman has printed the list of the Sulzer recruits in the army and the last names were printed on May 13. Since that time just five more have enrolled under the Sulzer banner. The five are Christopher Saunders of No. 46 Cedar street, William D. Roosa of No. 44 Ten Broeck avenue, George J. Scott of Gardiner, Matthew Masten of Marlborough, and Abram Van Kleet of Saugerties, Route No. 4. There will be probably a few more recruits to enroll as they have until the first of June to fill out and return the special enrollment ballots sent them.

Meteors as They Fall.

When a meteorite enters the earth's atmosphere it is moving with a velocity of more than twenty miles per second. The friction of its swift rush through the air produces a tremendous temperature, and the outer parts of the meteor are melted off and dissipated in fiery vapor, but the passage through the atmosphere is so quickly completed that the inner portions are not affected, and meteorites have been picked up after their fall and found to be freezing cold within. Their velocity is so rapidly reduced by the resistance of the air that when they strike the earth they usually penetrate only a few feet at the most into the soil.

DUTY.

Let us do our duty in our shop or our kitchen, the market, the street, the office, the school, the home, just as faithfully as if we stood in the front rank of some great battle and we knew that victory for mankind depended on our bravery, strength and skill. When we do that the humblest of us will be serving in that great army which achieves the welfare of the world. —Theodore Parker.

EDISON'S BATTERIES MAY GIVE SUBMARINES 100 DAY CRUISING RADIUS—REFUSED GERMAN OFFER.

West Orange, N. J., May 21.—The Edison storage battery works here is busy making cells for the United States submarine E-2, which is being refitted, its lead batteries having been unsatisfactory. It is also constructing storage batteries for the submarine L-8, the first government-built submarine, which will be christened by Mrs. John Eyre Sloan, daughter of Thomas A. Edison.

"Three times a year for four years a representative of the Krupp people acting for the German government, came to the United States to see what progress was being made with the submarine battery, having found the lead battery not entirely satisfactory. Mr. Edison, however, would not sell a set of cells until he was satisfied they were perfect. This battery was not perfected until last September, or a month after the war started.

Odd Wedding Custom.

In northern Africa they have a way of providing for the wedding of their daughters that is interesting. When the guests arrive a man at the door receives the pence they give, and writes it down in a book. This means that when any of these guests have a wedding the host will give each of them just what they gave him. As it is, the guests pay for the wedding, and each one has either already received as much as he gives or will receive it later on.

Remarkable Memories.

Thomas Fuller could write verbatim another man's sermon after hearing it only once, says the London Chronicle, and could do the same with as many as 500 words in an unknown tongue after hearing them twice. Which reminds one also of "Memory" Thompson, who, among other remarkable feats, could repeat from memory the name of every shop in the Strand in proper order.

BIG CROWDS ALWAYS ATTEND

Messinger's Saturday Sale

It was last Saturday. This market looked as if all the meat selling in Kingston were being done here. A customer asked, in perfectly good faith, "What is drawing the crowds?" To which question the best answer, and the most convincing one, was the crowd itself. It was a compliment—both the question and the crowd. Not all of Kingston's homekeepers come here—not because they are better suited elsewhere, but because they are not aware of how well they may be pleased at this market.

ECKERT INDICTED FOR ABDUCTION

Grand Jury Hands Up Four Other Indictments and Seven Dismissals —Several Prisoners Discharged From Jail.

The grand jury which has been in session the past three weeks finished its work on Thursday afternoon and reported in supreme court to Judge Hasbrouck this morning handing up five indictments and seven dismissals of complaints. Two of the indictments were for rape, one for abduction, one for forgery, and one for burglar. All of the indictments were sent to the county court for trial.

Eckert Indictments.

Martin Eckert of Tongore was indicted on a charge of abducting Mary Jordan, the seventeen year old daughter of John Jordan of Ashokan who disappeared from home last April and was finally located on Wednesday evening by Sheriff Shultis and Under Sheriff Hornbeck at Poughkeepsie. The girl was restored to her father Thursday afternoon after she had given her testimony before the grand jury. Eckert who has been held in jail was arraigned and through his attorney, Frank W. Brooks, entered a plea of not guilty. He was remanded to jail.

Charged With Rape.

Daniel Griffin of Meadow street was indicted for rape in the first degree, the grand jury finding two indictments against him. The alleged rape was committed on his daughter, Ethel, on April 4 and 20 of this year. He was arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty and said that he would secure his own lawyer to defend him. Griffin was remanded to jail.

Miller Indicted.

Joseph Miller was indicted on a charge of rape in the first degree committed on Celia Davis, a thirteen year old girl of the lower section of the city. The alleged crime was committed along the West Shore tracks where it is alleged he lured the girl on the evening of March 9 of this year. He pleaded not guilty and Arthur E. Rose was assigned by the court to defend him. He was remanded to jail.

Alleged Forger Indicted.

Frederick Childs was indicted on a charge of forgery in the second degree in passing a check for $12 on Julius Jacobson on October 18, 1913, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty and the court assigned John W. Eckert to defend him. He was remanded to jail. Childs it is claimed is known also under the names of Harry Smith, John Smith, Larry Weston and John Love.

Alleged He Stole Chickens.

Conrad Van Leuven, indicted for burglary in the third degree, entered a plea of not guilty, and the court assigned City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., to defend him. Van Leuven is accused of entering the chicken coop of James Vernooy at Ellenville and stealing chickens on the evening of April 17 of this year. He also was remanded to jail.

In Jail, Not Indicted.

Brooks Osterhoudt, who has been held in jail, was discharged when the grand jury reported it had dismissed the charge against him of committing rape on Gertrude Cooper of Napanoch. Brooks is a negro.

Otto Neilson, also in jail, and charged with burglary in the third degree, committed, it was alleged, at Big Indian in entering the home of Norman Cruickshank, was discharged as the grand jury dismissed the charge.

Joseph Atelia, who has been held in jail charged with stabbing John Quick at West Park on December 24, 1914, was also discharged as no indictment was found against him by the grand jury.

The grand jury also dismissed the complaint against Frank Gabriel, now of Dannemora prison, where he is serving a term. Gabriel was charged with carrying a concealed weapon at Kingston Point.

LeFever Case Dismissed.

The grand jury also dismissed the complaint against Louis D. LeFever of New Paltz, charged with offering a bribe to a sergeant of the board of water supply police to secure contracts to supply the police barracks at that place. Mr. LeFever was not in custody.

Silvester Discharged.

Silvestro De Silvester, who has been held in jail charged with murder in shooting Arthur Quick at Atwood on April 28 of this year, was also discharged by the court as the grand jury dismissed the charge.

Excise Case Dismissed.

The grand jury also dismissed the complaints against James Fohey and Agnes M. Fohey, charged with Sunday violation of the excise law at Shandaken. The Foheys were not in custody.

Grand Jury Resolutions.

Before adjourning the grand jury adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas, we the undersigned members of the May, 1915, grand jury of Ulster county, have completed our duties and are about to adjourn, we do therefore enact the following resolutions:

As a representative body of the citizens of Ulster county we consider it our duty to show our appreciation, for the efficient manner in which that part of the county work which came under our observation, is carried on.

First—We wish to commend the district attorney's office for the excellent manner in which the criminal branch of the county's work is carried on, and we wish particularly to commend Assistant District Attorney, Frederick G. Traver, who directed our work, for the superior and capable manner in which he presented the cases that came to us for our consideration. Throughout our three weeks of deliberation, he has shown himself to be a man of integrity and ability, sincere and thorough in his work and a most able lawyer. We feel that in him the people of Ulster county have a man of whom they might well be proud.

Second—We wish to commend the Sheriff, Edgar T. Shultis, for the most excellent condition in which we found the county buildings which are under his supervision. The county jail especially is worthy of mention in this respect.

Third—To Under Sheriff Scott D. Hornbeck and the other members of the sheriff's office we wish to extend our thanks for the courtesy and kindly consideration shown us during our term as jurors.

Fourth—We wish to express our approbation to our foreman Christian W. Winne for the manner in which he presided over our body.

Fifth—To our clerk, William Lounsberry, and to our stenographer, Harold A. Styles, we wish to express our thanks and esteem for the many ways in which they have aided us, and for the admirable manner in which they have filled their respective positions.

CHARLES HUBER

"ATHLETES SHOULD BE LIME JUICERS," SAYS VETERAN TRAINER.

New York May 21.—"Lime juice is the greatest thing in the world for keeping athletes' blood in good condition" says Charles Huber, in an interview with Frank G. Menke, the sport writer, today.

"Baseball makes a man move about fast and that has the effect of churning up and hoating his blood. Lime juice tends to act as a blood cooler and furthermore, it aids in throwing off blood impurities. If a player would drink the juice of one lime daily, he will never have trouble with his blood."

Huber is the well-known veteran athletic trainer, now with the Newark Federals, among whose great accomplishments were the restoring of Harry Steinfelt's useless arm and the bringing back of baseball condition of Big Jeff Overall.

No Room For Doubt.

An instructor at Harvard was mightily bothered by a precocious and intellectually quarrelsome student who refused to accept even the oldest of truths. The instructor was talking one day of archaeological diggings.

"But, doctor," interrupted the student, "it has never been proved definitely to my mind that Schliemann did discover the site of Troy."

The instructor sighed wearily.

"Mr. Jones," he remarked, "I believe that the truth of Dr. Schliemann's finding will be accepted even by you when I tell you upon oath that he discovered even the corncobs that remained after the Greeks had fed the wooden horse."—New York Post.

Must Be Charming.

"What a charming young lady your son is going to marry!"

"Yes. It's even hard to find fault with her now that I know he intends to make her his wife."—Detroit Free Press.

HON. SABURO SHIMADA.

SHIMADA HEADS JAPANESE HOUSE.

Tokio, May 21.—Saburo Shimada, the parliamentarian known as the Wendell Phillips of Japan, was elected president of the house today. He has been connected with the Dooshi-Kai, Prince Katsura's party. In 1911 he visited the United States. He took a prominent part in the agitation in Japan against the California Land Ownership bill but opposed naval increases on the ground that they were likely to arouse suspicion in the United States.

Straw Hats Are Ready At The Live Store

Time's come to doff heavy headgear for the light, cool, summer straw. You'll find the biggest, most satisfactory variety in town here—domestic straws, Milans, Leghorns and Panamas—straight brims and curled brims—high tapering crowns and telescope crowns.

OUR interest in serving the customers of this store cannot be measured by the length of a dollar bill.

For we are more exacting, more scrupulous in selecting the individual items which go to make up our vast stocks than would be necessary were our object nothing but profit.

It would be easy indeed to slight a few of the hidden things in clothes-making and to get the price of through and through worth for merely superficial worth.

But it has always been our rigid principle to insist upon quality a little better than it need be—quality such as is found in every seen and unseen part of

Children's Teeth

What a blessing it would be if every child attending school could afford to have his or her teeth fixed. If every little mouth could be made sweet and clean and kept free from disease germs.

In place of such ideal condition, over 90 per cent of the mouths of school children are fairly reeking with bad teeth, decaying food and putrescent roots.

Such mouths are constantly emitting disease germs and contaminating the air of a school room.

If every child would use the tooth brush and some good tooth powder twice each day and each morning and night rinse the mouth with some good disinfectant, the atmosphere of the school room would be 50 per cent more pure.

We fill temporary teeth at half price.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, May 20.—Ladies' Auxiliary Club held one of their delightful meetings last Friday afternoon in the M. E. Church parlors, when Mrs. Austin Merritt, Mrs. Arthur Merritt, Mrs. Albert Martin, and Miss Mary Ida Merritt acted as hostesses to the club. Two new members were received, the Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Coddington. There were fifty-four present. Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Minard, Mrs. Albert Rose, Mrs. F. G. Randall, Mrs. W. Terwilliger, Mrs. A. Winfield, Miss Zimmerman and Miss Agnes Woodcock. There was a great deal of business, new furniture to be purchased for parsonage, also rugs and the fair in the fall was discussed. The chairman has been appointed, and work will commence soon. These people are busy and whatever they undertake they pursue with enthusiasm and energy, and they seem to be master of the situation at all times. All work is in a flourishing condition. The business session was quite lengthy. At the close all enjoyed a social fete, and the four hostesses served a bountiful and appetizing luncheon, and from the way the food disappeared it was evident that everything was first class, and that was proved by all present, and in fact this is a feature in which the auxilary club excel. It is a great pleasure once a month to hold these meetings, and all are anxious for the first Friday of the month to come around. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. L. Palmer. Work will go on through the summer, and at the July meeting will occur the election of officers for the year. Every member is earnestly invited to every meeting. Do not miss any for there is work to do for all in one form or another. It was late when all took their leave, and expressed to the hostesses much pleasure for the meeting, and all carried home with them a loving remembrance of the four royal entertainers.

Mrs. Pierce has returned from her trip to California, and is now in Quiettown.

A few members of the O. E. S. here were invited to Vassar Chapter on Friday evening to help celebrate their anniversary.

D. of A. held a regular meeting Wednesday evening when one candidate was put through the mysteries. They had also a prize cake, which brought them in some money. They served coffee and cake at completion of work. They have, we were informed, 52 members. At present they say their meetings are very interesting.

Funeral services for Ira DuBois were held from his late home at Lloyd last Monday afternoon. The Rev. G. H. Schofield of this place officiated. His wife died only seven weeks ago. He leaves to mourn his loss one son and one sister. He will be greatly missed in the home and community for he was out among the people every day, made frequent trips to Poughkeepsie, and was a well-known man here. He was 72 years old and was a Grand Army man, and has filled office of poor master for years, and was highly respected. The funeral was largely attended. Many beautiful floral pieces were in evidence. The funeral was under the direction of H. Sutton of Clintondale. The interment was at Lloyd cemetery. The sympathy of many friends is extended to all relatives and especially the son and family, who will so greatly miss their loved one.

There is a report out now that this place is to have a building erected that will serve for moving pictures, with a good sized stage and a seating capacity of 400, and it is stated that if the project goes through it will be a fine place to hold all entertainments. It is a long desired and much needed affair, and only hope the building may soon be going up.

Jesse Rose and wife have spent a short time at Tompkins Cove.

A few from here attended Euterpe concert in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday evening and enjoyed the music very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Donovan were in Poughkeepsie Wednesday. They attended Cohen's, and report it was fine.

Rev. E. Hunt was in this place this week and left for a fishing trip with friends.

The town board held a very interesting meeting Wednesday evening in regard to state road and other matters.

State road people have worked all night for a few nights and there is prospects now for fine road in the future. It will be finished in fall, so they say and everyone hopes so, for we need it bad enough.

Howard Wilcox was out of town a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Donovan were out for a motor trip this week.

William Davis was in Milton on Wednesday evening calling on friends.

The Missionary Society of the M. E. Church held a very fine meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence J. Elting. There was a large delegation present and the meeting was interesting. The hostess served refreshments at the close which ended a pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. Edward Miller spent a few days the past week in Kingston as the guest of relatives.

Miss Mabel Keller of Kingston has been visiting this week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller on Maple avenue.

J. W. Feeter is at present in Syracuse visiting relatives. He expects to be absent a week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles DuBois have gone on a fishing trip up at Claryville, also Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Elting. These people enjoy several days of fishing and hunting, about as well as anyone we ever knew, but all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. So every once in a while, they say they need a vacation, then they pack up and start. But wait until they return, then we will know what luck they had. Just remember your friends and give them a surprise.

Epworth League will celebrate their anniversary Sunday evening, May 23. Come out to the M. E. Church then, they have a good program in store. All the league members requested to be on time for you will certainly enjoy it.

George Main of Kingston was a week end guest at his home on Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Winans of Poughkeepsie were guests of relatives here last Sunday.

Miss Bertha Dimsey was in Lloyd last week.

Mrs. George Pratt, visited her mother, Mrs. Deyo in New Paltz Monday.

Epworth Union held a very interesting meeting Friday evening. There were members from leagues from Milton, New Paltz, Clintondale, Modena. They always hold their meetings every three months at one of the named paces. They had a fine program and a grand social time was enjoyed, fine refreshments were served and everyone was delighted with all.

Rev. G. S. Davis, former pastor of the M. E. Church here, now of Hyde Park, recently purchased a touring car and went out with the instructor and had bad luck—ran in a tree and damaged the car. Also the man who was teaching the Rev. was cut by glass from windshield. It was nevertheless fortunate with the unfortunate, but autos are like some people, hard to manage some times. Still we are glad to know the pastor was not hurt and he will handle the machine O. K. after a while.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilcox have been spending some time in New York city.

Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Terpening and Miss Dimsey motored to Rifton last Sunday and they were also in Newburgh last Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Ganse, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Coddington and Mrs. Rose motored to Newburgh last Saturday.

Mrs. A. W. Lent was a visitor in Wappingers Falls recently.

Mrs. J. C. Dedrick has arrived at her summer home on Maple avenue. She enjoys life in the country greatly. She will make trips to New York city every week through the summer, attending to her property there.

Funeral of Arthur Hasbrouck was held last Saturday afternoon from his late home. Rev. G. H. Schofield preached the funeral sermon. Many floral tributes were sent by friends and relatives. His mother, one brother and stepfather are left to mourn his loss. Funeral arrangements were under direction of Mr. Brisco of Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rhoades, daughter and son motored to Newburgh last Saturday.

Earl Miller and Wesley Rhoades were in Newburgh last Saturday.

Orange Ingraham motored to Newburgh recently with a lady friend. They had a very delightful trip.

Thomas Leonard, who has been spending a few days in town, has returned to his city home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Marsh spent the week end in New York city and enjoyed the trip and also the fleet lying in the harbor. Many from here took the trip just to see the war ships.

Madaline Sutton was a guest for the week end of Mr. and Mrs. Hallock Sutton at Clintondale.

Olga Davis has been visiting in Hyde Park. Rev. G. S. Davis is pastor there of the Methodist Church. They are delighted with their new place.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, May 20.—Walter Hunter spent the week end out of town.

The West Shokan school has closed for the season and the teacher, Hazel Bell, has returned to her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wardell of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday at Benjamin Giles's.

Charles Mac Donough is our hustling new milk dealer.

Spider Wood enjoyed an auto ride Sunday afternoon.

Two prominent young men of Kingston while returning home in the early hours of Monday ran out of gas near Lake Kenozia and had to foot it back to Winne's store, but in spite of their enforced walk the boys arrived in Kingston in time for breakfast.

Rob Hogan has purchased an Overland touring car and is ready to take the boys out at 50 cents per head.

William Buley has moved on the Buley farmstead. Claude Rose now occupies the Shultis cottage.

Thomas Krekeler and family came up from Brooklyn in their Hupp car Monday and are now at their country place.

The state road people have nearly finished their job at Cold Brook, so they will probably come here next week.

Mrs. Don Everett is getting to be quite a motor enthusiast and handles their Huppmobile with some skill.

George Lasher and Emmett Personus went fishing in the Bushkill recently. Water is pretty cold yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bloom are now located in Petersburg, Va.

Lester Personus enjoyed a trip to New York Sunday.

Services were held in the O. S. Baptist Church Sunday morning.

Kate Walton of Kingston spent the week end with friends here.

Oscar Ganter has renovated his lawn and made other improvements to his place.

Charles Giles has completed a wood house for the Reformed Church parsonage.

Mrs. Ward of New York, formerly of West Shokan, has been visiting Mrs. William Petherbridge.

Mrs. Dunham of Fleischmanns will teach the school next year.

Arrangements are being made for the Children's Day exercises which will be held in the church the second Sunday in June. The committee appointed consists of Mrs. J. D. Ennist, Mrs. I. H. Dumont and Mrs. C. I. Page.

Mrs. Alfred Didier of Brooklyn is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Longyear.

Stanley Winne ran his car in the guard rail of the Boulevard near the Dumont cottage Sunday night. The car was badly smashed.

Records of Aeroplanes.

For an aviator there has been invented in France apparatus which shows the speed at which his aeroplane is traveling, the velocity of the wind and the angle at which he is attacking it and whether he is rising or falling.

HEROIC VETERANS

Napoleon's Famous Fighters, the Imperial Guard.

LIVED UP TO THEIR MOTTO.

Even at Waterloo the Survivors of the Old Guard Fought Their Way on Their Retreat and None Surrendered. Their Shameful and Pathetic End.

Probably no household troops or bodyguards in the world ever achieved the reputation of Napoleon's imperial guard, and they had their origin in a manner that shows that imperial guards, like inventions, generally are often mothered by necessity.

It was during his Milan campaign, in the days of the republic, while Napoleon was still General Bonaparte, that the Austrians nearly captured the Little Corporal. If they had succeeded probably the whole history of Europe would have been different and Waterloo would be still waiting for a reputation.

He was passing along the bank of a river with a small escort lent from the divisions of Augereau and Massena. An Austrian corps was hastening up the banks of the same stream to join Beaulieu. After General Bonaparte had ridden some distance in company with Augereau he then returned to Valeggio, where he stopped. He had been suffering from headache and believed that a foot bath would effect a cure.

So during his stop he pulled off his boots and sought to bathe his feet at a house in the village. While he was thus engaged the Austrians appeared. They came so rapidly that there was scarcely time to sound an alarm. However, the alarm was sounded, the gates of the carriageway closed, and the post began to make adefense.

Pulling one boot on one leg and fearing to spend the time to boot the other, Bonaparte rushed out through a back way and thus made his escape on his horse. He rushed as hard as his horse would carry him to Messina, and, although his troops were at mess, they were quickly gathered and started off after the Austrians, who, when they were met, were forced to flee.

But the experience taught Napoleon a lesson. He found that it was perfectly possible for a commanding officer to be taken prisoner with comparative ease, and he soon found a way to make this more difficult.

He organized a command, at first called guides, whose principal duty was to protect the commanding officer. By degrees this body was increased, and under the consulate it was known as the Garde Consulaire, receiving that title in 1799. At that time it consisted of 9775 men and was a mere body of household troops, although naturally with a man like Napoleon it was a combatant force and not for ornamental purposes.

In 1804, with the creation of the empire, this body became the Imperial guard. It grew in size and importance, and in 1809 it was divided into the Vielle garde and the Jeune garde. It was a place of honor. To be admitted the soldier must have served in three campaigns. Consequently it was known as the elite of the imperial troops. Every man was a veteran. It could be depended upon to do its utmost. In 1814, when Napoleon abdicated for the first time, the Imperial guard had been increased to 112,482 men of all branches of service.

It was owing to the fact that this army, called the imperial guard, was composed of veterans, men who had seen service and were old campaigners, that Napoleon believed them to be unconquerable. The brunt of battle always had to be borne by the imperial guard. They consequently were always fearfully cut up. Only a remnant of the guard returned from Russia, and at Waterloo their ranks were cut down until few of the old guard remained. It was their motto that the old guard never surrenders, and those who were able to walk away from the battlefield at the foot of Mont St. Jean fought their way on their retreat, and none surrendered.

After Waterloo the old guard was treated shamefully. As many as could be caught were court martialed, and the remainder were regarded as so many banditti. General Lallemand brought 800 of them to America and with them founded a colony in Texas, then not United States territory. This settlement, which was unsuccessful, was named Champ d'Asile, or Field of Refuge. The Mexican government compelled them to leave, and they next sought refuge at Galveston, but again were made to move on, and finally, after a few months, the 47 of the 200 that survived arrived in New Orleans. They came here in 1818, and it was not until 1820, when there were only a few survivors, that a sum of 80,000 francs reached the exiles.—Exchange.

Butler and Bishop.

A former bishop of Bath and Wells loved to impress on his ordination candidates the importance of a thorough study of the "Analogy" of Bishop Butler. "Goodby, my dear young friend," he once said in taking leave of a student at the palace door and then earnestly added, "Whatever you do, don't forget the Butler." "Oh, my lord, I haven't," stammered out the youth, "I have just given him half a crown."—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Tomorrow will be like today. Life wastes itself while we are preparing to live.—Emerson.

Tribute to the Ancient Romans.

The Avezzano region was not unknown to the Romans and the old Roman roads across the mountains may still be traced in places. A man beside the way of whom the distance was asked, replied: "By the Roman road it is so far."—Thomas Nelson Page in Scribner's Magazine.

Candles on Cake.

To make candles stay in place on a cake turn a hot knitting needle into the lower end for a couple of inches, pull it out and quickly press into the cavity a wooden toothpick. Let this harden in place and then stick the other end of the toothpick into the top of the cake. If you force the toothpick into the cold candle the candle will crack and break and you cannot manage it, but this way of making the hole for the toothpick with a hot needle is sure to be successful.—Cleveland Leader.

A Scriptural Weapon.

Children tumble into strange morasses when they grapple with theology. They trip over words. For example, the other day a teacher at Stepney took for the Bible lesson the story of Samson. At the end of the lesson questions were put to test the understanding of the scholars. "With what weapon did Samson slay a thousand Philistines?" was the question. For a space there was silence. Then a little girl spoke up. "With the ax of the apostles," she said.—London Chronicle.

Oldest Welsh Melody.

The Welsh guards have a fine marching song in "Land of My Fathers." This, according to Sir Ernest Clarke, is the oldest Welsh melody extant, having been composed in 795. After many hundred years Evan James, an obscure schoolmaster, wrote some words to it, which have come to be adopted as the Welsh national anthem. At a mass meeting in Wales to celebrate the end of the South African war very few knew "God Save the King," but "Land of My Fathers" was rendered with immense enthusiasm.—London Mail.

A Good Retort.

The head master of a boarding school a few miles north of London is very particular about the behavior of his scholars during meal times, a fact of which the undermasters are fully aware. A short time back one of the tutors observed a boy cleaning his knife on the tablecloth and immediately pounced on him.

"I suppose that's what you generally do at home, sir?" he remarked sternly.

"Oh, no," replied the boy quietly. "We generally use clean knives at home."—London Mail.

To the Business Men of Kingston

Message No. 3

When a good salesman goes out after business, he first puts on a clean collar and gets his shoes shined. Then he looks like more business—and he's made a flying start toward getting it.

Likewise, a community can go after more business—and get it. The "clean collar and shiny shoes" of this town are the well-painted stores, the bright, cheery homes, the fresh, clean-looking buildings. The part paint plays in building up local pride cannot be put in figures—but its good effects are recorded on the local merchants' sales sheets. Buy good paint. We recommend and Dutch Boy linseed oil. There is nothing else so satisfactory, so lasting and cheap in the long run. Sold by all good paint dealers. Get in touch with your dealer today.

Dutch Boy Atlantic White Lead

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, May 21.—Mrs. A. P. Chalker of Kingston was the guest of friends here Thursday.

Hope Lodge, No. 65, Knights of Pythias, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in their Castle Hall on Broadway.

Cecil Decker of Salem street celebrated his eleventh birthday at his home Saturday afternoon by inviting several of his friends. Among those present were Frank and Earl Terwilliger, Carl Hotaling, George Vincent, Leonard, Lester and Edwin Finch of Kingston. The afternoon was enjoyed by playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served. All wished Master Cecil many like occasions.

Mrs. William Kelse of Kingston spent Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Terpening, in Sleightsburgh.

Mrs. Burger is having her residence in Sleightsburgh painted. Her son, James, is doing the work.

William Stephenson is having the interior of his home decorated. George Fairbrother and son, William, are doing the work.

PINE GROVE.

Pine Grove, May 20.—Mr. and Mrs. William Manning and children, Mrs. Margaret Manning, Lou Wolven and wife, Clayton Mower and several other friends from Palenville motored to Centerville on Sunday and spent the day with Mrs. Jane Cheritree and Mrs. Eleanor Mower.

Norman Lasher of Woodstock called in this place on Saturday evening.

Miss Jennie Burton of Saugerties recently spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burton.

Charles W. Cooke, wife and family of Quarryville were Sunday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bishop.

DeWitt Croswell has sold one of his team horses to N. Lasher of Woodstock.

DeWitt Croswell has sold one of his cows.

Arnold Mower is working for Clinton Finger at Mt. Marion.

Henry Burton, wife and daughter, Viola, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cooke at Quarryville.

Exercises will be given on the last day of school at the Pine Grove school house. Time and date to be given later.

Charles Wolven and son, Harry, of Woodstock, called in this place on Sunday afternoon.

Fishing is the order of the evening.

Henry Snyder, wife and family of West Camp spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Snyder.

Fred Chapman and wife, Bernice Snyder, Orville Snyder and Herman Snyder attended the movies at Saugerties Monday night.

William Wolven and wife spent Monday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfisterer at Daisy.

Henry Burton called at the home of Joshua Minkler at Saugerties on Saturday.

Mrs. Franklin Snyder was standing on a chair the other day, doing some house cleaning work, when the chair gave way and she came down with such force and was so badly jarred that Dr. Luther Emerick was called to attend her.

Mrs. Eugene Rugar, formerly of this place, now of New Paltz, was standing on a chair washing windows when she accidentally fell off, and upon recovering some of her teeth were found missing.

Dr. Rudolph Diedling was called in attendance to Arthur, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bunton, he having found a box of Paris green and eaten some of it's contents.

Miss Marguerite Schoonmaker called on her aunt, Mrs. Norman Cole, at Saugerties, one day last week.

Charles Bishop and Henry Burton are employed at Woodstock.

Miss Vina Spielman will work at Woodstock for Mrs. Herrick the coming summer.

Peter A. Mower, wife and child, and Harry Mower, wife and son, Lester, spent Sunday with Mrs. Eleanor Mower at Centerville.

Myer Snyder recently caught three foxes in a trap and shot two. He took them to Saugerties and received a bounty of one dollar each. This $5.00 easily earned.

Hazel Spielman will work at Saugerties the coming summer.

The carpenter work on the house of Mrs. Ernest Mower is nearly finished, and when completed will be one of the finest house in Pine Grove.

The new library for the school has arrived, and the children are delivering the goods received.

Why use a Broom which raises dust and spreads disease germs when you can Buy a High Grade Sanitary Sweeper for-

THE REASONS FOR THIS OFFERING

1. THE HYGENO MFG. CO., which makes these Sweepers and sells them to retail regularly for $2.50, needed the money.

2. Our proposition to pay cash induced the company to make the price so low that we couldn't pass it.

The Sweepers are finished in a beautiful mahogany. We'll put them alongside any make selling at $2.50 or better. The materials and workmanship are second to none at any price. They bear on their surface a neat advertisement of our store name. See them on display in one of our large store windows.

We are willing to pay something to have our name appear in the homes of Kingston people on an article in daily use. Consequently we cut our regular profit down to practically nothing. You can see the Sweepers here any time this week and try them if you wish. They are on sale Saturday only. The quantity is limited and the value has never been duplicated in Kingston. FULL WAR POWERS TO ITALIAN CABINET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, May 21.—The Italian senate today ratified the action of the Chamber of Deputies in conferring full war powers upon the cabinet. Throughout the morning there were persistent rumors that a war council had been called.

It was also reported that Germany and Austria planned to seek further delay by demanding an explanation of the war action taken in parliament on Thursday.

Baron Macchio, the Austrian ambassador, was quoted by friends as saying:

"The time has not yet come for me to leave Italy".

Rome, May 21.—With full authority in its hands to declare war against Austria and Germany the cabinet met today to regulate its policies under its new power. Premier Salandra, the "Man of the hour in Italy" was wildly cheered on his way to the meeting but the city was generally calm. War with Austria and Germany is regarded by the public as inevitable; the only question is: When will it begin?

All members of the cabinet maintained strict silence as to the next step to be taken. Unusual activity at the war office and the admiralty showed plainly that important developments are close at hand.

It was reported that a forty eight hour ultimatum would be sent to Vienna during the day. But at the same time belief was felt in many quarters that hostilities would be commenced without further diplomatic intercourse with the governments of the Teutonic allies.

From a semi-official source it was learned that the government expects the following developments: Italy will declare war against Austria and Austria will then declare war against Italy; Germany is then expected to declare war against this country and be followed by Turkey. Plans have been made for three separate phases of action by the war office and admiralty:

1—The launching of troops against Austria.

2—The transportation of an army into France.

3—A vigorous naval campaign against the Austrian defenses in the Adriatic with the possibility of a fleet going to the Dardanelles to help the allies batter down the Turkish works on that strait.

The military operations will be directed by Count Luigi Cadorna, Lieutenant Colonel and Chief of Staff of the Italian army, and by General Carol Caneva, commander of the army on the Austrian frontier. The naval operations will be directed by the Duke of the Abruzzi, commander of the Italian navy.

The Vatican is expected to remain neutral.

Although the Roman Catholic Church has been shorn of its political power here, Italy is a Catholic nation. Austria and Germany are both strongly Catholic, both having ambassadors at the Papal court. The efforts of Pope Benedict XV will be directed toward bringing about peace at the earliest possible moment.

The Bavarian and Prussian ministers to the Vatican have already called upon their fellow prelates, bidding them farewell.

Prince von Beulow, the German ambassador to the Quirinal, will probably remain until diplomatic relations between Italy and Germany have been completely severed.

Naby Bey, the Turkish ambassador, has made final preparations for his departure.

Venice has been strongly fortified as a result of reports reaching the admiralty that the Austrian fleet at Pola will bombard that city at the first outbreak of hostilities.

The seizure of foodstuffs consigned to Germany is underway. At Naples the customs authorities confiscated a cargo of 2,000 tons of rice whose destination was Germany.

Copies of the government's "Green Book" putting responsibility for the approaching war upon Austria are being circulated throughout the kingdom and the newspapers have been ordered to print it for the "instruction of the people."

Gabriel d'Annunzio, the poet and playwright, who has come into prominence, as leader of the "war party," was given noisy ovations when he appeared in public.

"All political lines have been swept away," declared d'Annunzio. "Nobleman and Socialist will fight shoulder to shoulder for the fatherland. Italy stands upon the threshold of a new era. The old glories are already in sight. We are to have a new freedom together with the friendship of England, France and Russia. We will expand commercially and territorially. It is a glorious hour."

A Turin despatch says that the bulk of the civilian population has fled from the Austrian port cities of Trieste, Pola and Fiume. The Imperial authorities are dispatching the official archives from Trieste into the interior of Austria. Ninety-two per cent of the males in Southern Austria from 17 to 50 years of age have been called to the colors. There are about 20,000 Italians of military age in Germany and it is reported that the German authorities are treating them harshly and putting every obstacle in the way of their departure. Many have been arrested as spies.

A Strenuous Preacher.

Whitefield, one of the founders of Methodism, who died in 1770, was a strenuous preacher. His usual program was forty hours' solid speaking each week and this to congregations measured in thousands, but he often spoke for sixty hours.

This was not all, for "after his labors, instead of taking rest, he was engaged in offering up prayers and intercessions or in singing hymns, as his manner was, in every house to which he was invited."

HEAVY RUSSIAN MASKED BATTERY IN ACTION. PHOTO © BAINS.

RUSSIAN MASKED BATTERY IN ACTION.

The German fights for the possession of Warsaw are now numbered among classic military history. It is said on good and reliable authority that more men have been lost in the so-far vain efforts of the Teutonic allies to take this important city than have been lost in any other campaigns and in most other entire wars.

The picture shows a heavy Russian battery, masked in order that its position may not easily be found, in the vicinity of Warsaw. Trees have been chopped down and draped ni as realistic a fashion as possible to conceal the gun and its workers. Modern range finders are so exact that once the position of a gun is known it is only a matter of a short time before it is completely put out of action by the cannon fire of its opponents.

Note how the soldiers are protecting their ears against the gun's detonation.

Extremists Who Become Cranks.

Writing of the fad that some eye specialists have of attributing almost all physical and mental troubles to the eyes, Dr. S. Johnson Taylor of Norwich, England, says in the Lancet that the principal trouble with these men is that they are extremists and have become cranks on their own specialty.

Daily Thought.

What we want is the old spirit of our forefathers; the firm conviction that not by criticism, but by sympathy we must understand; what we want is more reverence, more love, more humanity, more depth.—F. W. Robertson.

A Fool He Was!

A young officer rather new to his work was drilling a squad of recruits and gave the word of command. "Lift the right leg." One of the soldiers by mistake raised his left leg, so that it joined closely to the right of his neighbor. "Good gracious," exclaimed the astonished officer, "that fool has lifted both legs!"

The First Perfumes.

When you use perfume and call it such, do you think how the name came about? It means, in Latin, "from smoke," and the name proves that the first perfumes were only aromatic woods or gums that scented the air when burned.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The telephone call of Mrs. C. N. Reed, society news reporter for The Freeman, has been changed to 1012-W.

Wednesday evening Miss Viola H. Berryann of 118 Boulevard entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party. The evening was delightfully spent with games and music, several excellent selections being rendered on the piano by the Misses Lillian Van Steenburg, Jeannette Cochrane and Walter Kidd. Singing and dancing were also enjoyed by the guests. At 10 o'clock they were ushered into the dining room, where an elaborate birthday supper was served. The table was prettily decorated with cut flowers and a large birthday cake glowing with candles decorated the center of the table. Many pretty gifts were received by the hostess and were highly appreciated. Those present were the Misses Margaret Elmendorf, Lillian Van Steenburgh, Jennie E. Frost, Caroline Herrmann, Viola Berryann, Susie Geisler, Jessie Rugar, Jeannette Cochran, Lena Elmendorf, Helen Conklin, Jeannette Berryann and Grace Berryann and Walter Kidd, Harry Spangenberger, Alfred Messinger, Raymond Israel, Aloysius Clare, Carl Thiel, Edward Cochrane, and Mrs. William Conklin, Mrs. Edward Elmendorf. The guests departed for home at a late hour voting Miss Berryann a royal entertainer and wishing her many more happy returns of the day.

Mulner-Baxter.

Hiram Mulner and Miss Cassie Baxter of Plattekill were married at Modena parsonage on May 17. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. A. Hawley.

DeGraff-Layman.

Miss Florence Layman and William DeGraff were married at the home of the bride at Blue Mountain on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. D. Brehaut. They will make their home in Stamford, Conn.,

NOT DERNBURG'S PAPER.

German Publicity Agent Not Connected With One Proposed Paper.

Editor The Kingston Freeman,

Dear Sir—The Freeman recently said editorially: "His (Dr. Dernburg's) scheme of starting a pro-German newspaper in this country has been knocked on the head, and those who have subscribed for stock will never be called upon to pay."

This statement has been understood by some as referring to the daily newspaper which is being established by the Printers & Publishers Association, Inc., No. 150 Nassau street, New York city. The officers of the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union who are in close touch with the Printers & Publishers Association wish to state that the paper for which they are working has no connection whatsoever with the German government or with agents of the German government, directly or indirectly, and especially not with Dr. Dernburg, and whilst the paper to be established will demand American fair play for all belligerent nations, incuding Germany it will be strictly pro-American.

Over two hundred shares have been sold so far in Kingston, chiefly through the volunteer services of James J. O'Reilly, No. 97 Clifton avenue, and the prospects seem to be that many more will be sold in this city and vicinity.

Thanking The Freeman for correcting an erroneous impression which has already in a measure proved detrimental to our cause,

The officers of the Kingston Branch of the A. I. U.

L. SUTOR, President.
M. A. REIS, Vice-President.
JAMES J. O'REILLY, Financial Secretary,
CARL WISMAR, Treasurer.
JACOB STUMPF, Recording Secretary.

Ideal Politics.

What I wish first to insist upon is the essential worth, nobility, primary indeed, of the liberal pursuit of politics. It is simply the highest, the most dignified, the most important of all earthly objects of human study. Next to the relations of man with his maker there is nothing so deserving his best attention as his relation to his fellow men. The welfare of the community is always more important than the welfare of any individual or number of individuals, and the welfare of the community is the highest object of the study of politics.—Whitelaw Reid.

Two Master Writers.

It was an odd coincidence, but a striking one, that the greatest genius of England and the most masterful mind in Spain passed from earth on the same day. Shakespeare and Cervantes both died April 23, 1616, the former being only fifty-two years old, and the latter sixty-nine.

The Ladder.

"Yes, he's one of our leading citizens. He certainly has climbed high in a few years. Why, he holds our best federal job."

"Indeed! How did he get it?"

"His brother-in-law is our leading politician."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fine Distinction.

"There are some things about life that I don't understand."

"What now?"

"A man is looked up to if he moves in a circle and frowned down on if he belongs to a ring."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Extinguished.

"He was positively burning with love for her."

"Oh, it was all right. Her father put him out."

It is an everlasting duty, the duty of being brave. Valor is still value.

WALL STREET WISE ONES.

You Can't Fool Them by Losing Things on That Thoroughfare.

While carrying a bar of gold weighing about two pounds from the United States assay office in Wall street recently a messenger dropped the little package from among other bundles he had in his care. Upon discovering his loss he retraced his steps quickly, but no sign of the gold could be found. He was notified he would have to make good. The policeman on duty near the assay office had this to say:

"It will be some half baked idiot who will pick that bar up. The wise ones of this street will never do it. If they saw it on the street they would think it a hoax of some kind and leave it severely alone. These very shrewd Wall streeters can't see their way a quarter of a block without matches in broad daylight.

"Two years ago a bank messenger dropped a leather bag with no more or less than $73,245 in it right in front of J. P. Morgan's office, corner of Wall and Broad. Was it picked up right away? Not for two hours. And who picked it up? Why a bunch of immigrants with packs on their backs came up Broad street, saw the bag, kicked it and then one of them, after a furtive look around, dared to pick it up.

"He laid down his pack, and so did his companions, while they examined it. I happened to be watching, and I saw the bills. They apologized abjectly in their jargon when I took it from them and saw by the lettering on the bag where it belonged.

"I didn't let on how cheap I felt myself. I had seen the bag an hour before, but refused to believe it worth while picking up. Some swift for a cop, eh?"

But he was no exception in Wall street.—New York Sun.

Remarkable Memories.

Thomas Fuller could write verbatim another man's sermon after hearing it only once, says the London Chronicle, and could do the same with as many as 500 words in an unknown tongue after hearing them twice, which reminds one also of "Memory" Thompson, who, among other remarkable feats, could repeat from memory the name of every shop in the Strand in proper order.

Agnail and Hangnail.

Hangnail was anciently spelled agnail, but did not really mean the bit of cuticle hanging from a nail, but a corn on the toe or any hard swelling. Palsgrave writes (1530) "agnayle upon one's too," showing that they were not very particular how they spelled any of the words.

A Regular Test.

"I'd go to the ends of the earth for you."

"I wouldn't ask you to do that. But we live seven miles from town, and you may call for me in a taxi tomorrow evening if you choose."—Detroit Free Press.

PRINCESS TROUBETZKOY SAYS WOMEN LOOK TO U. S. FOR JUSTICE.

"Peace at the price of the highest ideals, at the cost of humanity and civilization is base compared to a war that strives to maintain them.

"It is maternity in the women of America which swells into a vast and noble passion for redress when they picture that sunny day of May 8, and those mothers and children struggling in the pitiless water.

"The cry of mother for justice is a great cry!

"The whole matter amounts to this in the end: "Has America viscera, or has she not viscera?"——

The picture shows Princess Troubetzkoy.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret D. Foster was held from the residence of her aunt, Mrs. E. B. Sharot, No. 65 Van Deusen street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Edward C. Winchell was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence at Creek Locks and at 3 o'clock from the Bloomington Church, with interment in Bloomington.

Sarah A., widow of David S. Carney, died on Thursday at her home, No. 2 South Clinton street, Poughkeepsie, aged 64 years. The funeral will be held Saturday morning with interment at Highland.

Frank J. Haaf, proprietor of the Phoenicia House at Phoenicia, died on Thursday evening after a long illness. He was 38 years old. Mr. Haaf was a native of New York and went to Rosendale several years ago for his health and conducted a hotel at that place. He then took the Winchel place at Phoenicia. The deceased was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks. The body will be brought to this city Sunday and will be taken to the Elks' Club where services will be held on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Powell Excursion Saturday.

The steamer Mary Powell left this afternoon for Newburgh and will come up the river on Saturday for her annual excursion to the state capital, Albany. This is one of the many delightful excursions of the Powell during the early season and affords an opportunity for excursionists to visit the capitol and other points of interest. The boat will leave Kingston Point at 9 a. m.

On Andrew Street Grounds.

The games in the Junior Baseball League of the Y. M. C. A. which were to be played on the Athletic Field on Saturday will be played on the Andrew street grounds instead.

AIR MEN GET SCARED.

They Never Know When a Panic of Fear May Grip Them.

Professional aeroplane pilots have long since ceased to be ashamed to confess that they get scared and that a panic of fear while in the air may seize them at any time. Why this is so is the subject of an article in the London Aeroplane.

It appears that a flier, with an imagination is never quite happy, especially on a long flight in calm weather when he has nothing to occupy his attention. One pilot, who is one of the finest fliers in England, has a habit which is most disconcerting to his passengers, however consoling it may be to him personally. He will fly without a waver for perhaps half an hour, then suddenly the passenger will imagine that a storm has struck them, for the machine will stand first on one wing tip and then on the other, then it will dive terrifically, and then it will almost loop the loop. After that it will calm down and fly for another half hour, when the performance will be repeated. After they have landed and the passenger has remarked on the extraordinary squalls which struck them when over certain places, the pilot will casually explain that he was merely looking round at those intervals to see whether his tail was still there and was testing the controls to see whether anything was trying to jam.

"'Cold feet' may lead merely to proper caution, or it may lead to complete loss of nerve. A pilot may have cold feet of a certain machine and so fly it with due respect for its peculiarities, or he may have cold feet of flying altogether, in which case he had better give it up, for if he does not he must take to 'doping,' which is fatal.

"A particularly malignant disease is 'constructor's cold feet,' in which the victim, always on the ground himself, watches every machine in the air in a constant state of terror, expecting it to fall in pieces whenever it is moved by a gust, and when a machine of his own or any other make is on the ground, he is always pawing round it, finding some spot at which it may break."

Satisfaction in Work.

All thinking men and women get the main satisfactions of life, aside from the domestic joys, out of the productive work they do.—Charles W. Eliot.

Sleep Without Drugs.

"Doc, how can I get to sleep without using dope?" asked a man troubled with insomnia of a noted physician.

"On going to bed assume a comfortable attitude in which every muscle is relaxed," said the doctor, "but not the attitude in which you are accustomed to go to sleep, though something resembling it. Every movement, even coughing and yawning, must be strictly repressed, especially the desire to turn over. Maintain the same attitude without change, constantly resisting the longing to move or turn over. As a rule, by the end of fifteen or twenty minutes of this you will find yourself growing very drowsy and then, just as the desire to roll over becomes absolutely uncontrollable turn with the least possible effort and assume the position in which you habitually go to sleep. Natural sleep should follow at once. This method seldom fails. Give it a thorough trial at least before resorting to a drug to bring sleep."—Buffalo Express.

Heated Bearings.

Sometimes when a bearing becomes heated and requires oil it will be found that the oil will not flow down in the oil hole. Either the hole is clogged with dirt or the heat may cause the air to rise and prevent the oil from entering. Where a wire cannot be used effectively the following remedy, although it is not infallible, is almost sure to make the oil reach the bearing.

Fill the hole with oil and quickly place the thumb over it to prevent the air from escaping, and if the oil cup does not leak the heated air inside will rise above the oil, and in two or three minutes it will be forced into the bearing, even if it has to pass considerable dirt.

When a bearing cannot be reached in this way and when light oils, such as kerosene, are ineffective, try placing a little mercury in the oil hole and allow it to remain a few minutes, then use oil.—World's Advance.

After All His Trouble.

Two men were hurrying along Park row when the wind seemed to be blowing from all directions to the peril of umbrellas and anything not firmly anchored. One of them noticed the handle of a wrecked umbrella which had been thrown into the street along with many others and, stopping to pick it up, remarked to his companion that it was too good to pass. As he stooped a gust of wind captured his hat, and it went spinning along toward St. Paul's chapel, he after it. He ran into a man, slipped, fell in the mud and arose in time to see his hat run over by a truck. At a nearby restaurant, where he was drying his clothes, he said: "I lost a five dollar hat and spoiled a suit of clothes for the handle of a thirty cent umbrella. That would not be so bad, but I see the handle is broken."—New York Tribune.

A Painting.

What is a painting? It is the language of the artist in which he expresses his thought, conception of mind or emotion of heart. Where a writer expresses himself in words, the artist expresses himself in colors, light and shadows. An author's description of a place, person or object is but a word picture, while the artist's canvas stares us in the face, so to speak, flashing the subject continually before our eyes until we can grasp its every meaning without so much as turning a page. Thanks to our own Gilbert Stuart and his wonderful conception of the portrait of George Washington, it would take a paragraph or more to describe George Washington's mouth or nose, where Gilbert Stuart tells it to us in a few strokes of his masterful brush. —Elliot A. Haaseman in National Magazine.

Constantinople's Golden Horn.

The Golden Horn is the narrow strip of water which bounds Constantinople on the north. The Golden Horn is one of the biggest and safest anchorages in the world, and it is so deep that the largest warships can ride at anchor close in shore. It is about four and a half miles long. The suburb of Eyub, on the north side of the Golden Horn, is called after the lieutenant of the prophet who is supposed to have fallen there during the first siege of Constantinople by the Arabs in 672.

Stopped the Supply.

Little Margaret's father was away on a business trip for six weeks and during his absence a letter was received from him almost every day. Upon her father's return Margaret met the mail man and said: "You needn't bring us any more letters—my papa's home."

PARTIES COALESCE IN ENGLISH CABINET TO PRESS WAR.

London, May 21.—Great Britain is apparently on the eve of a momentous change in the cabinet whereby some of the Liberal members will give place to strong Unionists and Labor leaders, thus forming a coalition government, designed to inspire a complete public confidence and support, and to prosecute the war with the greatest efficiency.

The picture shows Premier Asquith (top center) who still retains his control of the government, Marquis of Crewe, (top left), who becomes Lord President of the Council and (top right) Arthur J. Balfour (Unionist leader), who is to be First Lord of the Admiralty, Vice Winston Churchill. Below are shown (left) Hon. Reginald McKenna, who retains his position as Home Secretary for the present but may be shifted to another cabinet position later, (center) F. E. Smith, slated as Attorney General, and Sir Edward Grey, whose conduct of the British foreign office is satisfactory to all British parties and who remains secretary of state for foreign affairs.

6,000 TICKETS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

This morning Mrs. Reed, secretary of the Kingston Symphony Society, for that society distributed the last of 6,000 tickets to the various public, high and parochial schools in this city, for the coming music festival to be held at the high school auditorium next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Brief mention was made particularly of the Symphony Orchestra concert, the public rehearsal for which will be held on Monday afternoon and of the public rehearsal on Tuesday afternoon, when the artists will give the solo program. Furthermore a short account of the oratorio of The Creation was given the boys and girls, and in every instance the interest on the part of the young audiences was marked. It is the hope of the Symphony Society that every one of these public rehearsals will be very well attended by the children.

Moran Business School Notes.

The enrollment now numbers fifty students, and the new premises in the Burgevin Building are proving a most pleasant environment in which to work. The large, light, airy rooms will be delightfully cool during the summer months.

Among those who are going to avail themselves of the opportunities afforded by the summer school are a number of teachers. The night school attendance is remarkably large for this time of year; and all indications point to a very large enrollment in the fall.

The equipment of the typewriting department has been improved by the addition of a number of new Remington typewriters. These machines are of the very latest pattern with several new improvements, and this is the only school in Kingston having any of this latest type of writing machines.

The name of John Hickey was inadvertently omitted from the last list of students published as winners of awards for business penmanship.

Several former students of another school are now taking a finishing course in the stenographic department, with a view to obtaining good positions, and one of these has already obtained employment in a Kingston office.

The greatest mistake is to become discouraged because you have made a mistake.

In Recorder's Court.

Michael Sweeney was arrested on Thursday by Policeman O'Neil on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and was discharged after a warning not to repeat the offense in the future.

West Shore Detective Goodsell arrested George Hale on the charge of train riding. He admitted his guilt and was discharged and ordered out of town.

John O'Rourke, arrested by Policeman Boyd for disorderly conduct, was also discharged with a reprimand.

A trial was held in the case of The People against Avel Modef, who was charged with having a revolver in his possession. The court held that the offense was only a technical one and he was discharged.

George Was Lonely.

George Lupton of Walden got tired of walking about the streets and not seeing a familiar face so he asked a colored girl to go and have a drink with him. He was arrested and sentenced to spend five days in jail.

Campaigns For Pure Foods

have been eye-openers to the American people. Scores of food products have been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

One of the commonest faults—and a serious one—is the deficiency of mineral elements in white flour foods. To this lack is due, in large degree, nervous prostration, anemia, rickets in children, and many other ills.

Nearly a score of years ago a wonderful food—made from whole wheat and barley—was devised. It contains all the nutriment of the grain, including, the valuable mineral salts so necessary for perfect building of body, brain and nerves.

That food is

GRAPE-NUTS

It has been awarded highest merits and place in the Westfield Book of Pure Foods, and in the N. Y. Globe's exceedingly exclusive Pure Food Directory.

LAKE ANAWANA CAMP IN JULY

The boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A. held an important meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening when it was decided to hold the boys' camp this year at Lake Anawana, Sullivan county, from July 6 to 31. This will give the campers practically one month of out of door life. Last year there was forty-three of the boys that spent two weeks at Lake Anawana. The camp will be located on the same site as in previous years and will be in charge of Physical Director Godfrey of the association. In order to make the camp a success it need only be said that the chef in charge of the cook tent will be "Gus" Bonesteel, who is famous for his "feeds." The boys desiring to attend camp this year may secure applications at the office of the association.

CITY PARK OFFERED BY RALPH K. FORSYTH

Joy's Woods Property to be Presented if the City Will Accept the Gift —Playground Association Organized.

The Kingston Park and Playground Association was organized at the conference held at Mayor Canfield's office on John street on Thursday evening to have charge of the playground in the rear of North Front street. It was also brought out at the meeting that Mayor Canfield had received a communication from Ralph K. Forsyth offering on behalf of the Forsyth family the famous Joy's woods and adjacent property on Lucas avenue to the city for a public park.

Mayor Canfield will send a communication to the common council which meets this evening requesting that body to accept the gift. The property contains 16.85 acres and will make an ideal site for a public park. In years past many a picnic had been held in Joy's woods and it was also the scene of many an old fashioned camp meeting.

The conference was called to talk over plans for transforming the swamp and waste land in the rear of North Front street into a playground. The swamp will be drained and the street department will assist in the work of filling in the swamp. It is also expected that the O. & W. and the U. & D. railroads will assist in the work of filling in land which will be graded.

Downing Vaux, a landscape artist, has prepared plans for the proposed playground free of charge and the plans were shown at the meeting. The plans show that the playground will comprise a baseball diamond, a running track, one-eighth of a mile in diameter, several tennis courts, numerous swings for the children, teeter boards, a band stand, tool house, tents, sand piles, walks, benches, flowers beds and shade trees.

The grounds in the rear of North Front street cover approximately three acres and will make an ideal site for a playground as well as transforming an eyesore into a beauty spot. It is expected that several arc lights will be installed on the grounds and steps will be built from the Fair street extension leading to the playground. A. E. Ross and O. E. Rose, of the Carl Company, have kindly granted permission to use the land owned by them in the rear of the big store for a playground.

Before the meeting adjourned the association was organized by electing the following officers: President, Admiral Francis Higginson; vice president, Senator Charles W. Walton; second vice president, William C. DeWitt; secretary, D. G. Atkins; and treasurer, William C. Shafer.

With Joy's woods as a public park, a playground in the rear of North Front street, and a public park on the city hall grounds, the city will have taken steps towards the building up of a park system in the city that will add much to its attractiveness as a residential city.

At Wauna Sanitarium.

Elmer Post of Rifton, who had his arm amputated at the Wauna Sanitarium, has returned to his home.

Mrs. Henry Teeter of Glasco, who underwent a serious operation at the Wauna Sanitarium, has sufficiently recovered to return to her home.

Mrs. Adam Sauer, of Henry street, who was operated upon by Dr. Mark O'Meara at the Wauna Sanitarium on Tuesday, is doing nicely.

Mrs. Henry Britt of Port Ewen, who was on Thursday operated upon at the Wauna Sanitarium by Doctors Chandler and Ross, is doing very well.

Miss Lena Eisenhardt, head waitress at the Stuyvesant, who was so seriously burned recently, has been taken to the Wauna Sanitarium for treatment.

Held For Grand Jury.

A hearing was had before Judge Charles A. Carle Thursday at Lake Katrine in the case of The People of the State of New York against John Treetoni. Numerous witnesses testified and at the close of the hearing Judge Carle was satisfied that sufficient evidence had been produced to hold the defendant to await the action of the grand jury and he committed the defendant to the county jail for that purpose. From the testimony it appears that the defendant flourished a revolver at a hotel on the Saugerties road and there was also some testimony to the effect that he threatened to shoot one of the persons living at the hotel. Hon. Andrew J. Cook appeared for the defendant and Chris. J. Flanagan for The People.

A Story of Charles Reade.

Charles Mathews was fond of telling a story of Charles Reade when the curtain fell at the old Queen's theater in London on a pronounced failure called "A White Lie." There was no shadow of a call for the author. The curtain divided the audience from the author, who stood on the stage shaking his fist at the invisible foe, still smiling blandly and in mellifluous accents saying: "Infernal idiots! When shall I teach you to respect Charles Reade?"

AMBITION.

It has been well said, "It is better to have a high standard and strive to reach it than to have a standard so low that our ambitions never look up." Ambition in itself is no sin. It is only when we subordinate everything else to an ambition which does not "look up" that it may become sinful.

His Happiest Day

By F. A. MITCHEL

There is something in a July morning that bespeaks not returning life, like April or May, or growing life, like June, but ripening life. The sun shines hot, there is the hum of industrious insects, and pleasanter still is the sound of a distant mowing machine. It is this mellowed rattle that bespeaks July. It denotes long swaths of ripened grain lying on the ground ready to be gathered into barns, then to be made into bread to give strength to millions of people.

It was such a morning as this that Mary Robbins, a farmer's daughter, caught the sound of the mowing machine down in her father's wheatfield. The day before a young man had applied for work. He was a strapping, manly fellow, with a pair of honest eyes toward which his thick hair grew, and he was continually tossing his head to throw it back. He had been engaged for the harvest, and now he was driving that mowing machine whose rattle was wafted up to the farmhouse on the breeze.

"It's a mighty hot mornin'," said Mary to herself, "and I don't envy that young feller swelterin' out there in the sun, drivin' round that square field. He's been out there since 7 o'clock, and it's now 10. He must need a snack. I'll just put some o' that bacon that was left over from breakfast between two slices of bread, get some milk out o' the springhouse and take 'em down to him."

A little later John Horton, the farm hand, paused to give his lathered horses a rest and, looking up, saw the farmer's daughter from the waist upward above the waving wheat.

"Purty as a sail ridin' the waves," he remarked to himself. "She seems to be heading straight this way."

Presently Mary emerged from the standing wheat, treading upon that which had fallen. Then the young man saw that in one hand she carried something rolled in a napkin, while in the other was a large tin cup. He wiped the sweat from his brow that he might see more clearly, and something pleasurable rose up in his breast when he realized what was coming.

"Gettin' hungry?" said Mary, with a smile, as she reached the farm hand and, unrolling the white napkin, displayed the sandwich.

"Waal, now, ain't this jist too fine for anything?"

He took the sandwich, and as his teeth struck the succulent bacon the expression on his face would have served for an advertisement for a prepared food. Then he took the cup and drained half of it at a gulp, and it seemed as if he had poured the essence of joy into his stomach.

"It's a long spell between breakfast and dinner," said Mary. "I just thort you'd like a leetle sittin' up, so I brought you a snack."

They had never met till the night before, and, since the young man was a stranger to her and Mary did not wish to appear bold, she turned to go back to the house.

"Can't you wait a bit," said John, "till I finish the milk so you kin take back the cup?"

"Oh, I'm in no consid'able hurry," replied the girl, and she stood still.

"This milk is cold," said John, "and they say a heap o' cold milk put sudden into the stummick is liable to bring on colic."

He looked at a tree beyond the fence. Mary took the hint and said it would be better for him to eat his snack in the shade. He let down a few rails, they stepped over the rest and, going to the tree, sat down on the grass. John finished his refreshment, but Mary made no move to return to the farmhouse, and he did not resume his mowing.

The sweetest moments neither wealth nor power can buy. The cool breezes blew upon these two young persons; the flecked sunbeams danced upon the grass about them. They were tasting the incipient sensation of two hearts drawing together, delicious as the first swallow of rare wine. The July scenery was around them with its odor of production. The mowing machine was silent. The horses were switching the flies with their tails.

"Mary!"

A woman's voice, the voice of Mary's mother, came over the fields from the house. At the same time the sound of a horn came from a neighboring farm.

"La sakes," cried Mary, "it's dinner time!"

That evening after supper Farmer Robbins paid John Horton a day's wages and told him to move on. John knew the reason, but said nothing. Inwardly he remarked that the two hours he had spent with Mary were worth a discharge ten times over.

Farmer Robbins locked the stable door after the horse had been stolen. It may require a burglar ten minutes to steal a watch; a girl's heart may be stolen during a flash of lightning. John Horton had stolen, through no fault of his, Mary's heart, but he declined to steal Mary from her father. He went away, but several years later he passed that way and found Farmer Robbins dead and Mary working the farm. He was engaged as manager and married her.

But he declares that the happiest day of his life was the day he was discharged for spending his time in the shade of a tree instead of attending to his farm work.

It was certainly an important day, for it brought him a wife.

CHAP. 86.

AN ACT to amend the general city law, in relation to moneys expended in observation of Memorial day.

Became a law March 19, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section thirteen of chapter twenty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to cities, constituting chapter twenty-one of the consolidated laws," as amended by chapter two hundred and eighty-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 13. Moneys; how expended. The moneys thus appropriated shall be expended under the direction of a board composed of the mayor and the commanders and quartermasters of the Grand Army posts, the United Spanish War Veteran Camps and the commanders and treasurers of Sons of Veterans camps of such city. The whole amount of such money appropriated or any part thereof may be spent by such board in observance of Memorial day. Bills properly verified for all claims and expenditures arising under this or the preceding section, shall be presented to and audited by such board and shall be paid by the common council of any such city. The moneys appropriated shall be raised by tax on the real and personal property liable to taxation in any such city in the same manner as the ordinary expenses of maintaining the city government.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

AN ACT to incorporate the Valeria Home.

Became a law March 19, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. In order to effectuate the testamentary purpose of Jacob Langeloth, late of the city of New York, to found and maintain a recreation and convalescent home for people of education and refinement who cannot afford independent homes, or to pay the charges exacted at health resorts or sanitaria, and which shall be open to all creeds and be entirely nonsectarian, Valeria Langeloth, Julius Goldman, Berthold Hochschild, Henry Goldman, Carl M. Loeb, Charles L. Bernheimer, designated by the chamber of commerce of the city of New York, Robert W. DeForest, designated by the president of the Charity Organization Society of the City of New York, R. Bayard Cutting, designated by the president of the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor in the City of New York, Vincent Loeser, designated by the president of the German hospital in the city of New York, and Job E. Hedges, designated by the trustees named in the will of said Jacob Langeloth, together with such persons as they may associate with themselves, and their successors, are hereby constituted a body corporate, in perpetuity, under the name of the Valeria Home, and by that name shall possess all of the powers which by the general corporation law are conferred upon corporations, and in addition thereto shall have all the powers and be subject to all the restrictions which now or may hereafter pertain by law to membership corporations created by special law, so far as the same are applicable thereto, and are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, and shall be capable to take and hold by bequest, devise, gift, purchase, lease, or by judicial order or decree, either absolutely or in trust, for any of its purposes, any property, real or personal, and especially the real and personal property devoted by said Jacob Langeloth in his last will and testament, which was admitted to probate by the surrogate's court of New York county, on September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, to the objects herein referred to, without limitation as to the amount or value, except such limitation, if any, as the legislature shall hereafter specifically impose; to sell, mortgage, lease, or otherwise convey or transfer such property, and to invest and reinvest the principal thereof and surplus income therefrom, and to deal with and use, expend and apply any property belonging to the corporation, and the income derived therefrom, in such manner as in the judgment of the directors will best promote its objects.

§ 2. The objects of said corporation shall be, the establishment, maintenance and management, without profit, of a recreation and convalescent home, at all times to be known as "Valeria Home," which shall carry out so far as practicable the charitable and benevolent purposes defined and described in the eighteenth paragraph of the aforesaid last will and testament of Jacob Langeloth.

§ 3. The persons named in the first section of this act shall constitute the first board of directors and members of the corporation. They, or a majority of them, shall hold a meeting and organize the corporation, and adopt by-laws which shall prescribe the qualifications of members; the manner of their selection; the number of directors, not less than seven, by whom the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed; the qualifications, powers, and manner of selection of the directors and officers of the corporation; the manner in which vacancies among the directors, occurring by death, resignation, increase in number, or in any other way, shall be filled by the remaining directors; the method of amending its by-laws, and any other provisions for the management and government of the corporation, the disposition of its property, and the regulation of its affairs, which may be deemed expedient; provided that the three persons first named in the first section of this act, shall be entitled to serve as directors during their respective lives and each of them is empowered to designate his or her successor.

§ 4. No officer, member or employee of this corporation shall receive or be lawfully entitled to receive any pecuniary profit from the operations thereof, except reasonable compensation for services in effecting one or more of its objects, or as a proper beneficiary of its strictly charitable and benevolent purposes.

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately.

AN ACT to authorize the adjutant-general of the state to hear and determine the application of Margarita E. Dillon, the widow of Charles P. Dillon, formerly a major in the national guard, who was injured while on duty, and to place her upon the roll of indigent pensioners of this state.

Became a law March 19, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The adjutant-general of the state is hereby authorized and empowered in his discretion to place upon the roll of indigent pensioners of this state, Margarita E. Dillon, widow of Charles P. Dillon, formerly a major in the national guard of this state, who was injured on June second, nineteen hundred and two, while on duty.

§ 2. When so placed upon the roll of indigent pensioners of this state, Margarita E. Dillon shall receive such pension and award as in his judgment after examination into the facts, the adjutant-general of the state shall deem equitable for such widow to receive, not exceeding the sum of thirty dollars per month, to date from the sixteenth day of May, nineteen hundred and fourteen, the day of the decease of the said Charles P. Dillon. Such pensioner shall be paid in the same manner as other indigent pensioners of this state are paid, and from the same funds.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAP. 97.

AN ACT to amend chapter two hundred and forty-one of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-three, entitled "An act to incorporate the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations," in relation to filling vacancies and the management and amount of its property.

Became a law March 19, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section two of chapter two hundred and forty-one of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-three, entitled "An act to incorporate the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations," is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 2. The management and disposition of the affairs of this corporation shall be vested in a committee composed of the individuals named in the first section of this act as incorporators, and their associates and successors in office, the said board to be composed of not less than twenty-seven members, one-third of whom shall go out of office, and one-third be elected, at each of the said international conventions of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British provinces by the said convention; and if any vacancy shall occur during the interim of the said convention, it shall be filled by a majority of the votes of the members present at any regular meeting of the committee.

§ 2. Section four of such chapter, as amended by chapter two hundred and fifty-one of the laws of nineteen hundred and seven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 4. The said corporation shall in law be capable of taking, receiving and holding absolutely and in trust for its general uses and purposes, and for any particular department of its work, and for any particular association by gift, devise, bequest, grant or purchase, subject to the limitation as to amount hereinafter stated, real and personal property, and, with the consent of the board of trustees herein provided for, of letting, leasing and conveying the same, and shall also have power with the like consent to issue bonds and secure the same by mortgages upon its real estate and its improvements; the consent of the said trustees to be evidenced by affixing their seal to the instruments of conveyance and bonds and mortgages, and causing the same to be signed by their president and treasurer, or other officers duly authorized thereto, in pursuance of a resolution of their board to that effect. Said corporation may take and hold as aforesaid property not exceeding in value fifteen million dollars, or the yearly income derived from which shall not exceed one million five hundred thousand dollars. In computing the value of such property, no increase in value arising otherwise than from improvements made thereon shall be taken into account. And the real estate of this corporation shall not be liable for any debt or obligation of the corporation, unless the same shall have been contracted with the approval of the said board of trustees. All devises and bequests, however, to the said corporation shall be subject to the provisions of the "act of the legislature relating to wills," passed April thirteenth, eighteen hundred and sixty, and the acts amendatory thereto.

§ 3. Sections five and six of such chapter are hereby amended to read, respectively, as follows:

§ 5. The said corporation and the said board of trustees shall each have the power to make and adopt a constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations for the government of its business, the management of its affairs, the choice, powers and duties of its officers and agents, and from time to time to repeal or alter such constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations.

§ 6. All real property which shall be given to or acquired by this corporation, and all gifts and bequests of money to be held in trust shall be held and shall be managed by a board of fifteen trustees, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business. The chairman of the said international committee shall, for the time, be ex-officio a member of the said board of trustees. Robert Fulton Cutting, Bowles Colgate, Charles Lanier, John S. Bussing, John C. Havemeyer, John Noble Stearns, Samuel Colgate, James Talcott, James Carey Thomas, Washington C. De Pauw, Henry J. Willing, Dan P. Eells, Charles W. Lovelace, Jonathan N. Harris and the chairman of the said international committee are hereby created such board of trustees; and whenever a vacancy shall occur in the said board of trustees the same shall be filled by a majority vote of those remaining; and the income which the said board of trustees shall receive from the property under their management and the said property shall be devoted to the purposes of this act and for no other purpose; and so long as the said international committee shall so expend the same, the board of trustees shall pay over to the treasurer of the said international committee the income of the property of this corporation so managed by them.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

AN ACT to legalize and confirm the official acts of notaries public and commissioners of deeds.

Became a law March 19, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The official acts of every person as notary public or commissioner of deeds within the state of New York, heretofore commissioned as such, which acts have been performed since the first day of March, nineteen hundred and fourteen, so far as such acts may be affected, impaired or questioned by reason of change of residence made after appointment, or by reason of misnomer or misspelling of name or other errors made in the appointment or commission of said notary public or commissioner of deeds, or by reason of omission or failure to take the prescribed oath of office within the time required by law, or by reason of such persons being under the age of twenty-one years, or by reason of the expiration of the term of office of such notaries public or commissioners of deeds, or by reason of failure of a notary public to file his certificate of appointment and official oath as such notary in a county other than the county in which such appointment was made and the certificate of such appointment was duly filed, where such notary public or commissioner of deeds has acted in good faith, upon payment being made by such notary public or commissioner of deeds of the legal fees for holding such office or filing such certificate, are hereby legalized and confirmed and made effectual and valid, as the official acts of a notary public or commissioner of deeds legally qualified to perform the same, as fully as if neither of the various errors, omissions, matters and conditions hereinabove enumerated has occurred or existed.

§ 2. Nothing in this act contained shall affect any action or proceeding pending at the time this act takes effect.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Subdivision six of section twelve of chapter sixteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to counties, constituting chapter eleven of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended to read as follows:

6. Borrow money when they deem it necessary, for the erection or alteration of county buildings, and for the purchase of sites therefor, on the credit of the county, and for the funding of any debt of the county not represented by bonds, and issue county obligations therefor, and for other lawful county uses and purposes; and authorize a town in their county to borrow money for town uses and purposes on its credit, and issue its obligations therefor, when, and in the manner, authorized by law.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss.:

AN ACT to legalize and confirm the tax levied for the repair of highways upon the assessment rolls of the several towns for the year nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Became a law March 24, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The taxes levied in the year nineteen hundred and fourteen for the repair of highways, upon the real and personal property in the several towns, are hereby legalized, ratified and confirmed and given the same force and effect as though the boards of supervisors had, in said year, levied the minimum amount required to be levied and collected under the provisions of subdivision one of section ninety of the highway law.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

AN ACT to authorize the adjutant-general of the state to hear and determine the application of Margaret Mollen, the mother of Charles Mollen, a national guardsman, who died from injuries received while on duty as such, to be placed upon the roll of invalid pensioners of this state and to place her upon such roll.

Became a law March 24, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The adjutant-general of the state is hereby authorized and empowered in his discretion to place upon the roll of invalid pensioners of this state, Margaret Mollen, mother of Charles Mollen, a member of the national guard of this state, who died while on duty as such at the joint maneuvers of the national guard and United States regular army, held in Connecticut in August, nineteen hundred and twelve.

§ 2. When so placed upon the roll of invalid pensioners of this state, Margaret Mollen shall receive such pension and award as in his judgment after examination into the facts, the adjutant-general of the state shall deem equitable for a dependent mother to receive, not exceeding the sum of twelve dollars per month, to date from the decease of the said Charles Mollen. Such pension or award shall be paid in the manner and from the same funds that the pensions of the other persons upon the roll of the invalid pensioners of this state are paid.

§ 3. This act shall shall* take effect immediately.

AN ACT to amend the stock corporation law, in relation to a corporation having its principal place of business removed from one county to another through an act of legislature creating a new county.

Became a law March 24, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section thirteen of chapter sixty-one of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to stock corporations, constituting chapter fifty-nine of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 13. Change of place of business. Any stock corporation now existing or hereafter organized under the laws of this state, except moneyed corporations, may at any time change its principal office and place of business from the city, town or county named in its certificate of incorporation, or to which it may have been changed under the provisions of this section, to any other city, town or county in this state, in which it may desire to actually transact and carry on its regular business from day to day, provided that such change has been authorized either by unanimous consent of the stock holders expressed in writing and duly acknowledged and filed in the office of the secretary of state, by a vote of the stockholders of said corporation at a special meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, or such change has been effected by an act of legislature creating a separate and distinct county wholly within the limits and boundaries of a then existing county or counties. When such change shall be authorized by the stockholders or effected by the creation of a new county wholly within the limits and boundaries of the then existing county or counties as herein provided, the president and secretary and a majority of the directors of such corporation shall sign a certificate stating the name of said corporation, the city, town and county where its principal office and place of business was originally located, and to which it may have been subsequently changed, and the city, town and county to which it is desired to change its said principal office and place of business, and that it is the purpose of said corporation to actually transact and carry on its regular business from day to day at such place, and that such change has been authorized as herein provided, and the names of the directors of said corporation and their respective places of residence, which certificate shall be verified by the oaths of all the persons signing the same, and when so signed and verified, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state and a duplicate thereof in the office of the clerk of the county from which said principal office and place of business is about to be removed or changed, and another in the office of the clerk of the county to which said removal or change is to be made, and thereupon the principal office and place of business of such corporation shall be changed as stated in said certificate.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

AN ACT in relation to the purposes, powers and organization of the American Institute of Architects.

Became a law March 24, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The American Institute of Architects, a corporation organized under and by virtue of the provisions of chapter three hundred and nineteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and forty-eight, entitled "An act for the incorporation of benevolent, charitable, scientific and missionary societies," by a certificate of incorporation duly filed in the office of the secretary of state on the fifteenth day of April, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, shall have, in addition to such powers as are conferred upon it by general provisions of law, the following powers:

1. It may carry on its business and exercise its corporate powers beyond the limits of the state, but the principal office of the corporation must be located within this state and the general books of the corporation kept thereat.

2. It may establish one or more branches or chapters in any other state, the district of Columbia, or in any part of the territories or dependencies of the United States of America, and for either of said purposes may take, by devise or bequest, hold, purchase, mortgage, sell and convey, or otherwise dispose of such real and personal property without this state as may be appropriate therefor; but nothing in this section shall be construed as exempting from taxation property to any amount additional to that now allowed to it under existing laws, nor to authorize it to hold or take by any devise or bequest property in excess of the amount which it is now authorized so to take by general provisions of law.

3. It may provide in its constitution and by-laws for annual and special elections by its members or by members of its branches or chapters, or by either or both such classes of electors, of representatives or delegates, either at large or from such chapters or organizations, and for an annual assembly or convention, and for special assemblies or conventions of such representatives or delegates; and such representatives or delegates, when assembled under the name and in the manner directed by its constitution and by-laws, shall have and may exercise all the powers, rights and privileges of an annual and of special meetings of the corporation respectively.

4. It may prescribe in its constitution and by-laws for the time and place of holding such assemblies or conventions, or of holding the annual meeting; and it may prescribe in its constitution and by-laws that the time and place of holding such annual assembly or convention or meeting, or of holding any special assembly, convention or meeting, may be fixed from time to time by the trustees; and it may hold any annual or special assembly or convention or meeting, and any meeting of its trustees, without the state.

5. It may provide in its constitution and by-laws that during the interval between meetings of its board of trustees, all powers and authority of said board shall be exercised by an executive committee thereof to be chosen from their number.

§ 2. Except as herein provided, it shall be subject to all the restrictions and liabilities to which it would have been subject but for this act.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

AN ACT to amend the poor law, in relation to relief of soldiers, sailors and marines, and their families.

Became a law March 24, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section eighty of chapter forty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to the poor, constituting chapter forty-two of the consolidated laws," as amended by chapter one hundred and two of the laws of nineteen hundred and ten, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 80. Relief of soldiers, sailors and marines, and their families. No poor or indigent soldier, sailor or marine who has served in the military or naval service of the United States and who has been honorably discharged from such service nor his family nor the families of any who may be deceased, shall be sent to any almshouse, but shall be relieved and provided for at their homes in the city or town where they may reside, so far as practicable, provided such soldier, sailor or marine or the families of those deceased, are, and have been, residents of the state for one year; and the proper auditing board of such city or town or in those counties where the poor are a county charge, the superintendent, if but one, or superintendents of the poor, as such auditing board in those counties, shall provide such sum or sums of money as may be necessary to be drawn upon by the commander and quartermaster of any post of the Grand Army of the Republic, or of any camp of the United Spanish War Veterans of the city or town, made upon the written recommendation of the relief committee of such post or camp; or if there be no post or camp in a town or city in which it is necessary that such relief should be granted, upon the like request of the commander and quartermaster and recommendation of the relief committee of a Grand Army post, or a camp of the United Spanish War Veterans, located in the nearest town or city, to the town or city requested to so furnish relief, and such written request and recommendation shall be a sufficient authority for the expenditures so made.

MARCONI WILL RETURN TO ITALY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 21.—"I must return to Italy tomorrow. War is only a matter of a few hours. I know this because of my communication with the Italian ambassador at Washington. I have been put in charge of all wireless stations used by the Italian army. No money could cause me to remain here."

This statement was made by Guglielmo Marconi, the wireless inventor, when his case against the Telefunken Company, which owns the German wireless station at Sayville, was called before Federal Judge Veeder in Brooklyn today. The trial of the case was put over.

If This Is Your Birthday

MAY 21

We now come to the sign of Gemini, meaning the twins and it is one of the most interesting signs of the Zodiac. The nature under Gemini is restless, uneasy and ambitious. It has the force of Taurus but is also more psychic and not so self-willed.

Gemini people or those born between May 20 and June 21 are very sensitive and talented. They often soar to the heights of genius as artists, musicians and composers.

The nature seems at all times contradictory and at one hour is happy and at the other miserable.

It is very hard for these people to settle down and concentrate on one line of effort and yet when they do thus become very successful in business and politics.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 21.—Although there were some irregular changes in prices in the early trading the tone of the stock market this morning, generally was strong and the various groups in which interest was shown made substantial gains. The war order stocks, the list of which is being lengthened every day, were in scant supply and in nearly all cases advanced on a small volume of business. Bethlehem Steel moved up 1¼ to 139¾; Crucible Steel 1⅛ to 25⅝. Fractional gains were made in Pressed Steel. The copper stocks were offered only on a small scale and there was buying on a belief that the demand for the metal would be materially increased. Amalgamated Copper rose ⅝ to 66; Tennessee Copper rose a point to 34¾ and Inspiration ½ to 29¼. U. S. Steel Common was the most active of the standard issues, rising ⅝ to 53⅝. An advance of ⅜ was made in Missouri Pacific at the outset to 13⅝, followed by a reaction to 13. Rock Island started ½ lower at 19⅛. Chesapeake & Ohio improved a point to 41¼ but receded to 40½.

Noon—The strong tone became more pronounced in the late forenoon and many stocks joined in a vigorous upward movement. Bethlehem Steel moved to 143¼, a gain of about 5 points for the morning. Westinghouse Electric moved up 2 point to 91⅜. U. S. Steel Common advanced ¼ to 53⅞. The copper stocks failed to maintain their early gains, Amalgamated Copper yielding ¼ to 65⅜; Tennessee Copper one point to 33⅛ and Utah Copper ⅜ to 64. Reading advanced ¾ to 14¾, Southern Pacific ¼ to 88 and Lehigh Valley ¾ to 142. Money loaning at 2 per cent.

2:30 p. m.—Westinghouse was one of the strongest issues on the list in the first half of the last hour selling around 93⅜ against 89½ at the opening this morning. Crucible Steel was also prominent, selling up to 28 against 24¾ in the morning. The tone was firm.

The stock market closed strong; governments unchanged; other bonds firm.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, May 21.—"Lime juice is the greatest thing in the world for keeping an athlete's blood in condition," said Charlie Huber, the veteran trainer of the Newark Federals.

Huber, who was the first man regularly employed as a trainer for a ball club, and whose skill as an osteopath prolonged the baseball careers of many of the most famous players during the past 30 years, added:

"Baseball makes a man move around fast. That has the effect of churning up his blood and heating it. Lime juice tends to act as a cooling influence and furthermore it aids in throwing off the blood impurities. If a player will drink the juice from one lime daily he never will be troubled with his blood."

Huber's home is in Cincinnati. His first regular baseball job was as a trainer for the Reds. That was back in the 80's. Since then he has been employed as trainer by various big league clubs, and everywhere he has been hailed as "the little miracle worker."

One of Huber's greatest accomplishments was in restoring power to the arm of Harry Steinfeldt after its baseball usefulness seemed over. Steinfeldt was traded to the Cubs, but almost as soon as he put on a Cub uniform something happened to his arm to make it almost useless. The Cubs were on the point of letting out Steinfeldt when Mrs. Steinfeldt went to see Huber.

"Can you do anything for Harry's arm," she asked.

"I don't know," replied Huber. "I can tell you better if you bring Harry to my office."

Huber then was back in private practise. Steinfeldt went to Huber's office and the veteran examined his arm.

"I'll have it back in shape—and better than ever—in ten days," said Huber.

And he made good. Steinfeldt with a "new" arm got back into the game and gained undying fame as a member of the wonderful Cub infield—Chance, Evers, Tinker, Steinfeldt—which still ranks as one of the greatest ever wielded together.

Jeff Overall, one of the greatest pitchers that ever stepped on the mound, had trouble with his arm. No one was able to fix it up. Overall was in despair. Just about that time he was introduced to Huber and learning of Huber's fame asked him if he could do anything for his arm.

"No, I can't, but you can do it yourself," said Huber. "I've been watching you and I've found out that in another six months you'll kill your arm absolutely if you don't change your swing."

Then Huber got Overall in a corner of the ball park and showed him how the peculiar twist that Overall used with his side arm delivery was wrecking his arm.

"Every time you throw the ball that way you twist your muscles," said Huber. "Your swing isn't natural—and the muscles revolt. You'll have them twisted out of shape shortly and you'll be through for all time."

Then Huber gave Overall a little chart showing the location of the arm muscles, showed him just what effect his twisting motions had on those muscles and then told him how he could change his style of side-arm delivery and correct the trouble without sacrificing any of the efficiency of the delivery.

Overall, following Huber's advice, shifted his style of delivery and became a world famous pitcher.

"I graduated from a medical school and thought of going into private practice," said Huber. "However, I found that most of the young doctors were nearly starving to death because the people wouldn't patronize them until they got a reputation. I needed money to make both ends meet so I decided to go into osteopathy.

"Among my first patients were several ball players. Those were the days when clubs did not carry regular trainers. The ailments of those first few ball players were minor ones and I fixed them up quickly. They spread the news to the other players and I soon had a large crowd of base ball players as my patrons.

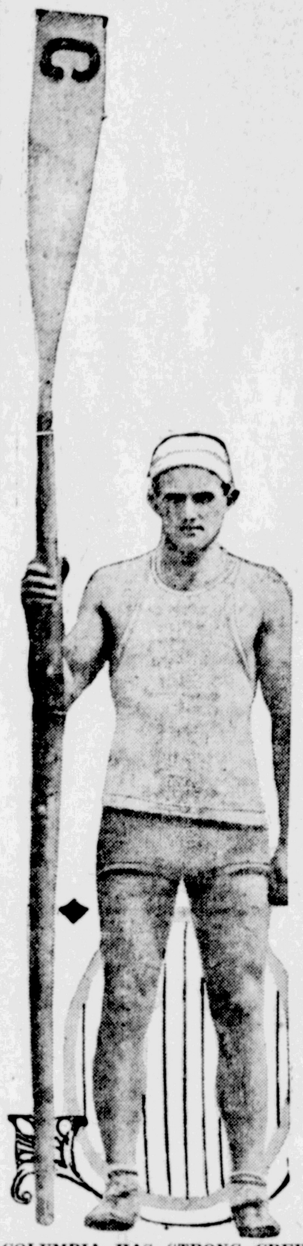
"The management of the Cincinnati Reds heard about this and they offered me a contract to train their men exclusively. I accepted—and I kept the men in good shape. When other clubs saw this they hired trainers and that is how it came about that all clubs made a trainer a part of their outfit."

Huber stayed with the Reds for several years and then returned to private practice. Later on he went back to baseball again, moving from one club to another, and always sought after by the big league clubs.

"About six years ago, I decided to retire permanently to private practise, but when Bill Phillips, who was an old pal of mine when he was pitching for the Cincinnati Reds, took charge of the Federal League club in Indianapolis I accepted an offer he made to me and went with his club. When the Indianapolis club was transferred to Newark I continued with the club and I guess I'll stay as long as Bill is manager."

Huber, during his career covering more than 30 years, has treated many prize fighters. One of his patients was Kid McCoy.

"McCoy came to me while in the hey-dey of his power," said Huber. "He had some trouble with his shoulder muscles that robbed his arm of its full punching power. A few treatments fixed up the Kid. It was a simple job, but the Kid always told me that no one else ever could have done it and he has been one of my greatest friends and greatest boosters ever since."



COLUMBIA HAS STRONG CREW. CAPTAIN SANBORN.

New York, May 21.—In spite of the fact that the Columbia Varsity crew ran second to Princeton at the recent regatta, supporters of the loal eight expect great things of it in the Intercollegiate Regatta next month.

The picture shows Captain Sanborn, whose work in organizing the crew and as No. 4 oar is especially notable.

MT. PLEASANT.

Mt. Pleasant, May 20.—There will be services in the Reformed Church Sunday at 3 p. m., Evening service at 7:30. We trust there will be an organist and choir present.

Mrs. Charles Russell is ill.

Congratulations to Miss Nina Dedrick, who has been successful in winning the Leader's trip to San Francisco.

J. B. Winnie has some guests which reminds us that the boarding season in on its way.

Miss Agnes McDonald has rented the Cockburn cottage for the coming year and has already taken possession.

Mr. Constantine has been around getting new postal views for the summer trade.

Mrs. Ella Wells, who has been spending the past three weeks at Amagamsett, L. I., has again returned to the home of Mrs. Helen L. Olds.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new road between Mt. Pleasant and Phoenicia, a road which is needed very much.

William Meister is about to open a drug store in the former post office building at Mt. Tremper. We wish him much success as it will be a benefit to the town.

Hobson Here June 1.

The last number of the Star Course of the Y. M. C. A. has been arranged for Tuesday evening, June 1, and Congressman Richard Pearson Hobson will be the attraction when he will lecture on "The Great Destroyer." Mr. Hobson is too well known to need praise. The last number of the course was to have been a lecture by Governor Hanley but he found it impossible to come to Kingston and the association secured Mr. Hobson.

Experienced Smokers "Roll Their Own"

"Bull" Durham is not the smoke of novices or dabblers in tobacco enjoyment, but of connoisseurs, smokers of experience, whose tastes have been trained to a fine discrimination and appreciation of tobacco quality. These men—and their name is legion—prefer the fresh cigarettes they roll for themselves with mellow, delicious "Bull" Durham tobacco to any other kind. Their expert preference has made it smart, fashionable, correct, to "roll your own" with

GENUINE
"BULL" DURHAM
SMOKING TOBACCO

The delicate, rich, mellow-sweet fragrance of this leaf can only be retained in the bulk of tobacco in the "Bull" Durham sack, and enjoyed in the fresh-rolled cigarette. That is why "Bull" Durham hand made cigarettes have a distinctive, unique, delightful aroma, found in no other cigarettes and in no other tobacco. That's why "Bull" Durham gives experienced smokers throughout the world supreme enjoyment and wholesome satisfaction.
